homa, Interprets Step as Giving Metal Status as

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today ordered silver made the property of the government. Immediately markets moved

The presidential decree means the completion of the taking over of the nation's supplies of precious metals, begun by gold nationalization last year. Domestic stocks of silver with some exceptions, are to be delivered to the treasury within 90 days. The price to be paid is 50.01 cents an ounce.

Apart from its implications, some said the nationalization of silver lacked unusual significance. The authority to take over the metal was granted in the act passed by the last congress. It had been predicted on

There, the treasury will acquire is estimated at between 50,000,000 and 200,000,000. The treasury will issue notes amounting out to a similar figure for the stocks. Consequently, additional currency to be issued will be somewhat arbitrarily speaking.

But Thompson said that action to mean that silver is "at last private money." Nationalization, he said, would bring into the "over-the-counter" world the gold bull.

See Agreement.

He confidently predicted an interesting both previously agreed and called off a speaking tour he had arranged to urge additional currency inflation.

silver could be nationalized only if it were regarded as "primary money." "This means," he said, "that the strongest and richest nation has decided to make a wider use of silver as money. This will cause other nations to adopt a similar policy."

Morgenthau Silent.

Secretary Morgenthau made no comment on the reasons for the nationalization, merely saying: "I'm relieved that it's all over." He said nothing when told that Thomas charged that the recent sharp rise in the price of silver showed there had been "leak" as to the treasury's intention.

It was pointed out, however, that silver is approaching a world price of 60 cents an ounce and that under the silver purchase act the price the government would pay for silver supplies would be a maximum of $50.01.

Some observers said continued treasury buying to carry out the mandate of the act would mean that the supply of silver maintained as a currency base should be one-third that of gold, might force the world price of silver to 100 cents. In that event, it was asserted, there would be a current smuggle domestic silver out of the country. Nationalization would prevent that.

for an international monetary conference to arrive at an understanding on both gold and silver was plainly shown in his message to congress.

CANADIAN FLIERS LAND IN ENGLAND

Ayling and Reid Conquer Atlantic But Fall Far Short of Objective.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(P)—James Ayling and Leonard Reid, adventure-seeking Canadian fliers, completed a trip across the Atlantic ocean today, but storms they encountered defeated their effort to set a new non-stop airplane flight record.

They landed here this evening, abandoning their effort to fly from Wausgan Beach, Ont., to Baghdad, Iraq, after ocean storms had buffeted their sturdy black biplane about for many hours.

Ayling and Reid came down at Eton airport a little disappointed but still cheerful, at 5:07 p. m. G. M. T. (11:07 a. m. Atlanta time).

They had come from the shores of Lake Ontario, had crossed eastern Canada and the north Atlantic ocean, in 31 hours and 7 minutes.

The unexpected difficulties of combating fog, adverse wind and rain squalls over the ocean made it necessary for them to use large quantities of gasoline.

Moreover, the controls of their plane, the Trail of the Caribou, jammed dangerously several times and there were indications they might cause more trouble. Ahead the weather was becoming increasingly unfavorable.

Over England the fliers made a hasty calculation and concluded they did not have enough fuel aboard to break the existing long-distance flight record of 5,657 miles. The record out of their grasp, they decided to stop at London.

The fliers circled over Hendon and Stag Line airports on the north side of London and then flew over to the Heston airfield.

They were completely unexpected. One attendant said they came down as nonchalantly "as if they had come from just around the corner."

Asked why they chose to land at Heston, Reid jokingly replied, "We understood the beer was best here."

After refreshment and some telephoning the Canadians climbed back into their plane and taxied across the field to test the troublesome controls.

Olson Defends Rule

Of Military in Strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—(P)—Governor Floyd B. Olson today described as a "deliberate trap" the attempt to move a truck July 20 which resulted in two deaths and more than three score wounded as police fired upon strikers who sought to stop the machine.

The incident occurred six days before the governor ordered military rule in the city. It was this order the chief executive was defending before a three-judge federal court today, arguing against the petition of 10 trucking firms for an injunction against the continued use of national guardsmen.

After hearing the governor's extended argument, in which he also attacked the court's jurisdiction, the court took the case under advisement. Plaintiffs attacked the military rule order as unnecessary and unconstitutional.

Otherwise the situation in the 24-hour strike was quiet today with 7,200 trucks, 15 per cent of normal, moving under military permit and peace negotiations at a standstill.

Governor Olson asserted he had been asked by Sheriff John Wall, of Hennepin county, in which is Minneapolis, to give national guardsmen "absolute control" over the strike situation after the incident of July 20.

ALABAMA WOULD BAN

UNTAXED CIGARETS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 9.—(P)—Alabama will call on the NRA for aid in its fight against the interstate shipment of tax-free cigarettes into the state that threatens to reduce the tobacco tax revenue pledged to education.

S. R. Butler, state tax commissioner, announced today that one of his field agents would confer tomorrow in Birmingham with an NRA representative. His announcement followed the acquittal of Judson Mitchell, of Pensacola, in city court on charges of selling cigarettes without a license, and in the Montgomery county court of common pleas on a charge of violating the state tobacco tax law.

In both cases Mitchell was acquitted on his contention that he was an agent of a Pensacola, Fla., tobacco dealer and that the state was without authority to tax interstate commerce.

TRAINS OF GASOLINE

CRASH IN RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 9.—(P)—Two trains loaded with gasoline and oil crashed head-on tonight just outside the Rekeas station on the Bucharest-Criova line, bursting into flames after a spectacular explosion.

The train crews on both were killed.

One of the trains was supposed to have waited at the station, but through a switching error they collided while under way. The flames were seen 50 miles away.

BLUE FLAME MAKES

TIME DESPITE ROADS

According to reports received from drivers of the "Blue Flame Chevrolet" Economy car, bad road conditions and a long detour caused them to lose much time on their schedule. However, they were able to make up all of this lost time before the 24 hours had elapsed. To do this it was necessary to run the car at top speed of 75 to 80 miles an hour. But even at this terrific speed they are still averaging close to 17 miles to the gallon, with practically no consumption of oil.

This master model Chevrolet left Atlanta Tuesday at noon to cover 12,000 miles in 12 days. This is the longest and hardest economy test any car has ever been subjected to. At noon Thursday it had covered slightly over 2,000 miles in 48 hours, and seemed to be headed for a successful climax of the test.

Weddings Mean Temporary Jobs For Many, Says Employment Head

A few years ago a wedding meant work for the preacher, the florist and the bride's dressmaker. But now, according to Miss Irene Colwell, of the community employment service, the matrimonial bells ring in good news for a large number of job hunters. One unemployed woman spent a very profitable day this week addressing brides' invitations. Many butlers, maids and even an occasional footman from the negro service bureau, are called for by families who want to give daughter a good "send-off" on her great occasion.

In spite of the fact that July brides are scarcer than those taking the steps in other months, Miss Colwell states that July's quota of jobs is about the same as that for other months and that more applicants have been placed within the past two weeks than in any other equal time in the last five years.

The most profitable call for temporary employment came in several days ago, when an actress telephoned from a local hotel for someone to pack her luggage and mend her clothes. It was an all-day job for the woman who answered the call, but she returned that afternoon laden with spoils. The actress had bought more new clothes than she had room for in her suitcase, so she donated the old dresses and knick-knacks to her maid-for-a-day.

JOBLESS HUNGRY AS LONG, WALMSLEY USE FUNDS FOR WAR

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 9.—(UP)—Scores of "unemployables" looted garbage cans for food tonight as Senator Huey P. Long and Mayor Walmsley poured thousands of dollars of public funds into a gaudy "war" for political patronage.

The kingfish returned home from a fishing trip today to survey the effects of his "siege of New Orleans" with the militia, a favorite weapon of his state political machine.

He found, among other things, a federal grand jury investigating his income tax returns.

He found his troops still holding size on the registrar of voters' office, in defiance of court injunction, and Mayor Walmsley's "army" of 800 police and some 400 citizen deputies still standing by their guns, awaiting an occasion to combat the soldiers.

Cost of maintaining and arming the two forces was estimated at more than $2,000 a day.

Newspapers carried lurid accounts of the starving unemployables. There are 1,500 of them in the city, mostly aged and infirm persons and children. They are physically unable to work. The FERA cut them off relief rolls because the state legislature, under Long's dominance, failed to pass a relief appropriation. Walmsley said the city cannot help them because its money was tied up in "other matters."

All of which shows that the moneyed class has a heart after all. The most kindly thought of all was expressed by a gentleman who called Wednesday and asked for a one-legged carpenter. He would have nobody with two legs, he said, because a man with a peg-leg would need the job more.

An increasing interest has been shown in the occupational testing department, located in the office at 85 Poplar street. Letters from all over the United States have been received from persons who have read of the service and want to be tested by mail. During the month of July the community service placed 312 persons, 68 of whom recently graduated from local high schools.

Georgia Tag Sales Gain as U. S. Drops

Although motor vehicle registration for the United States showed a marked decrease in 1933 from the total in 1932, Georgia made a great increase, the largest by any state, according to figures made public Thursday by the American Petroleum Industries committee in New York.

The national total decreased from 24,115,120 to 23,827,290. Georgia's increase was from 287,116 to 330,147. The increase was believed due to the $3 tag and to the fact that inasmuch as most of the southern states showed an increase, the gain also was attributed to an improvement in conditions throughout the area.

Tennessee showed a gain from 298,713 to 312,180, and North Carolina a gain from 372,326 to 382,308. South Carolina showed a decrease from 178,370 to 162,735; Florida a drop from 286,021 to 279,265, and Alabama a decrease from 225,846 to 206,361. All other southern states, with the exception of Louisiana, which decreased slightly, showed gains during the year.

Air Commerce Inspectors in Conference At Candler Field Division Headquarters

By SARA WILSON.

Four shiny black planes with brilliant orange wings were parked outside the administration building at Candler airport Thursday. Their pilots, inspectors of commercial aircraft for the aviation division of the department of commerce, were inside for a conference on the interpretation of regulations with Wiley R. Wright, supervising inspector for the third district.

The ships are small models and look like wasps on the dusty field, but they are the latest thing in aircraft. None of them are more than two months old and they have carried the inspectors over a territory including eight states without a crackup. One Waco bi-plane, one Stinson monoplane, and two Fairchild monoplanes were assembled, but in line the difference was hardly distinguishable. They were ultra-modern from the zippers on the brake covers to the chromium-plated gadgets inside. The four inspectors joined the representatives of the department at district headquarters at Candler field for an all-day conference. Roy Kealey, airline inspector for the territory, was the only member of the staff absent. Three of the six present were war-time pilots. The others received their instructions at various fields between Texas and Illinois. All have at some time held reserve commissions and Mr. Wright is still ranked as a major in the air corps reserve.

They go out on monthly schedules to the various fields for inspection. Owners and operators of planes are notified in advance so that their machines may be ready for examination.

The Atlanta division of the bureau of air commerce has at present the four planes which were at Candler field Thursday, and a fifth plane in which Mr. Kealey flew to Washington. Two more ships are ordered, but the department of commerce is short 25 planes in their allotment, the two planes may not be sent for some time. The inspectors present and their respective headquarters are J. G. Nall, Charlotte, N. C.; J. R. Puckett, Pan-American airport, Miami, Fla.; George Wiggs, McConnell field, Nashville, Tenn.; I. K. McWilliams, Customs building, New Orleans, La.; Fred M. Lanter, Candler field, and Mr. Wright, the supervising inspector.

LOCH NESS SERPENT REALLY EXISTS, 20 WATCHERS AVER

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Yes, there is a loch ness monster—if you accept the findings of Sid Edward Mountain.

The reported presence of the mysterious monster in the Scottish lake had piqued the public curiosity for many months, along with the curiosity of Sid Edward, a leading businessman.

Determined to get to the bottom of the thing, he organized a party of 20 watchers. After peering into the lake for a month they report that beyond doubt loch ness harbors some "unmistakable monster."

Sir Edward's watchers agree the creature has a relatively small head, shows "two or three" humps when near the surface, and moves with such remarkable speed through the water, he, she or it creates a big wash.

During the month, the patient observers said, they were rewarded 21 times by glimpses of the animal. But they are not yet fully satisfied and will continue the lookout for another week, hoping to get good photographs.

CITY FINANCE HEAD CONFERS ON RELIEF

Councilman Aubrey Milam, vice chairman of council's finance committee, and B. Graham West, city comptroller, Thursday afternoon sought a reduction of at least $10,000 a month in municipal appropriations for relief purposes.

They conferred with Alan Johnston, district FERA administrator, and Miss Gay B. Shepperson, Georgia

FERA administrator, at Miss Shepperson's office. The federal officials asserted they would notify the city of the decision within a few days. They took the matter under advisement.

Previously all negotiations by FERA have been handled through Mayor James L. Key's office, and it was expected that the decision would be forwarded to him.

The finance committee to seek the reduction, was not present during the discussion.

THREE MEALS A DAY KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES by Sally Saver

Summer Porch Suppers. By JOSEPHINE GIBSON.

Out-of-door meals are always pleasant in midsummer, and while it may not be convenient to have a picnic away from home, simply planned suppers served on a cool porch or on the lawn are a good idea for at least once a week during these months.

The food should be, for the most part, cold, and plate service where the entire course is arranged on the dinner plate is the simplest method of service. Paper plates are in order so that after dinner work is reduced to a minimum. Such meals are not only enjoyed by the family, but are delightful for summer guests. If your porch or lawn is a pleasant place, you will find suppers served either place, infinitely more enjoyable and better suited to summer tastes than more formal meals. Many meals may be adapted to such service. The two given here will suggest to you many other suitable menus for suppers on the porch.

A Peach-Scented Finishing Cream

By MIGNON.

1. I was thoroughly disappointed a few months ago to find that my favorite foundation cream, scented with peach, had been discontinued and that the manufacturers were putting out the same cream with a new and to me, much less attractive scent. I complained bitterly and was told that the majority liked this stronger perfume so they changed it. I mopped a while when I couldn't find any more peach foundation cream of any kind and then one day about three weeks ago a package came from another manufacturer. It was this same sort of cream—pale pink and heaven be praised, it was my old delight, the peach fragrance.

Now if you want a peach finishing cream, walk right up and ask me what it is. It is perfect in both consistency and fragrance. Somehow it has the faculty of making you feel as if you had the original peaches-and-cream complexion that poets used to write about. It isn't too sweet, it isn't too heavy, it isn't too lasting. It simply fades into a delicate, hardly discernible perfume that you yourself catch every now and then. If any one kissed you—if they did—I doubt if they could refrain from telling you how like a peach blossom you seemed. I know I seem to be overenthusiastic but it is that good. It is one of the few scents that almost everyone likes.

Recently I met a woman who buys only heavy perfumes—those suffocating things that make you want to breathe close to the surface and not let the air into the depths of your lungs. She said it lifted her spirits to use it and sent me down to the basement level! So there is a demand for all kinds of perfumes for all kinds of people with all kinds of taste.

2. Incidentally there is a new perfume that you should know about, perfumed with a haunting and very faint odor. I can't tell you what it is like. I can only promise that its delicacy will appeal to nice women who never want to be objectionable because of being overdressed, overperfumed or overpowered. It comes in a crackle bottle with a gold metallic something that makes it look like the wide gold bands with which the eastern women decorate themselves. It is very stunning. The liquid is slightly pink and the effect of light on the bottle through the crackled glass and the liquid is extremely pretty on a dressing table.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Card Reading.

Mrs. Sydney W. Band, playing with John W. Jacobson, of Toronto, won the mixed pair championship at the recent Canadian-American contract bridge tournament at Niagara Falls, N. Y. This was the first time this contest was held, the trophy having been presented by that dean of bridge players and writers, the late Milton C. Work. As evidence that the winning of this event was not a fluke but was based on sound playing, we give the hand below, in which Mrs. Band's sound card reading, fulfilled a difficult contract.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

♠ K Q 4
♥ J 6 5 3
♦ J 8 7 6 4
♣ A 3 2

The bidding:

1♠ South West North East
1♥ 2♥ 2♠ Pass
2NT Pass 3♠ Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

The hand is a difficult one to bid, and the final contract of three no-trump, although slightly optimistic, cannot be severely criticized.

West, with a sure entry in the club ace, decided to open his fourth best heart. Mrs. Band won this lead with the ten in her own hand and entered the dummy by leading a spade to the queen. The club four was now led and Mrs. Band made the excellent play of a low card instead of the king from her own hand. West's ace winning the trick. West now returned a spade and the king in dummy won the trick. A low diamond was led and East's ten forced South's ace.

At this point Mrs. Band cashed her two good spade tricks, and by now had a reasonably accurate count on the East and West hands. The lead of the heart king removed East's last heart, and after West won the trick with the ace he returned the jack of the same suit. South won the trick with the queen and then threw in the East hand with the lead of a diamond.

East of course cashed another diamond trick, but was now forced to lead away from the club queen. Mrs. Band's ace let the club lead ride amount of luck in the way the cards king in her own hand provided the ninth trick. Although a certain amount of luck in the war, the cards were distributed as necessary for the fulfillment of the contract, the hand still could not have been made had the dealer's play not been so precise.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

LEGION MAY BAN BONUS AS CONVENTION ISSUE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—

Commander Edward A. Hayes, of the American Legion, indicated today the bonus issue might be laid aside when the national convention meets at Miami in October.

Hayes did not reveal his attitude on the cash payment of the bonus but he said:

"I have heard very little mention of the bonus in the state conventions I have attended."

A resolution urging bonus payment was pending at the Legion convention in Chicago last year but it failed of adoption after President Roosevelt addressed the gathering.

Nine of the visiting contestants sang over WGST from 9:30 until 10 o'clock Tuesday night, Miss Chesick being the first of the nine on the air.

by the Walt Disney sound effects man, Pinto Colvig.

"REPEAT"—A presentation of Johnny Green's "Night Club Suite" and a performance by Herman Wasserman, concert pianist, will be heard in "repeat" performances of "In the Modern Manner" over the WGST-Columbia network on successive Fridays, August 10 and 17, tonight from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. The program, in which the suite and Wasserman's piano recital were original highlights, are being presented in their entirety again by popular request.

Wasserman will be guest artist tonight. He will play a brilliant study in rhythm, "Dance Negre," and a special transcription of "Let's Fall in Love" for piano and orchestra.

GILLIAM ATTACKS PITTMAN POLICY

Atlanta, at Elberton, Says Candidate Offers Nothing Constructive.

ELBERTON, Ga., Aug. 9.—Speaking here this afternoon to an audience of citizens of Elberton and adjoining counties, Ed A. Gilliam, candidate for governor, asserted that Judge Claude C. Pittman, who has been in the state and in the country for the last few days, has not had time for anything constructive.

"In his opening speech at Calhoun," said Mr. Gilliam, "Judge Pittman said that he had been in the state and in the country for the last few days, and that he had not had time for anything constructive."

"The judge and myself are in agreement as to the desirability of defeating the governor for re-election. The governor's defeat, in my judgment, is essential to the welfare and progress of the state. But merely to accomplish the governor's defeat is not going to solve the problems of our state government, and Judge Pittman's candidacy is totally deficient on the constructive side."

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that a large majority of the people want the governor defeated. A majority of 45,000 people voted against him two years ago, and the majority against him now is relatively greater than it was in 1932. The best the governor can hope for is a run-over this time, and in a run-over he will be defeated, whether it be Pittman or whether it be Gilliam in the run-over against him."

"Half the farm lands of Georgia have been sold for taxes or under foreclosure involving non-payment of taxes. Your ad valorem revenue system has crushed the value of our property, and yet it is yielding insufficient revenue to run the state and the subdivisions thereof."

"It is going to take a far-reaching and fundamental revision of the whole revenue system of the state and its subdivisions to lift the burden from property and to produce a revenue adequate to carry on the functions of government."

"A candidate who challenges the re-election of a governor without submitting a definite program, which he will undertake if you place him at the head of the state, is a deficient candidate. Suppose you throw out the great 'Gene' and put in the judge—what will you get?"

"Will you get a revision of your revenue system? Will you get the burden of taxation lifted from the shoulders of property, which is now prostrated, and spread equally and evenly and uniformly upon the whole population?"

"Will you get the revenue from alcoholic beverages which you ought to be getting, but which you are not getting because the bootleggers are getting it? There are two classes of people in Georgia who are perfectly satisfied with existing conditions under the 'bone-dry' fraud. One of the fanatical prohibitionist and the other is the bootlegger."

"Will you get from motor carriers for hire a revenue commensurate with the damage they are doing the highways, the financial ruination they are visiting upon the railroads, and the profits they are making from commercializing our highway system?"

'TOBACCO ROAD' HIT BY LEAGUE AT AUGUSTA
AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Little Theater League today turned thumbs down on Erskine Caldwell's "Tobacco Road."

The committee, which has full power to select plays for presentation this season, termed it "a manifestly unfair picture of a cross-section of the south."

President Archie Grimalds, of the Little Theater League, had asked the committee to consider "Tobacco Road" when choosing this season's showing. Many patrons rebelled to the board of governors when they learned the play was being considered.

Its author is a native of Wrens, Ga., near Augusta, and the play has just reached major prominence in New York, where it is now showing.

Park has represented Bibb county in the legislature for two terms. Other counties beside Bibb in the twenty-second senatorial district are Lamar, Monroe and Pike.

No Politics, No Drinks For Augusta Officers

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Richmond county police force must stay away from political meetings and refrain from soliciting votes for candidates for office.

The county commission has introduced a rule to that effect made by Chief W. M. Weaver and also has approved another rule prohibiting officers from drinking either on or off duty.

TALMADGE IS CRITIC OF FDR, SAYS HOWARD

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Governor Eugene Talmadge has been one of the "most severe critics" of President Roosevelt, "the one man in this world who has inspired confidence and faith in the breasts of the farmers and laborers," William S. Howard, of Atlanta, told an audience here tonight.

Speaking in the interest of the gubernatorial candidacy of Judge Claude Pittman, former Congressman Howard reviewed President Roosevelt's relief work, his establishment of the civilian conservation camps and his farm and home loan projects.

He said that today, because of the action of the president, cotton is bringing over 13 cents per pound, compared to a price of six cents per pound on March 3, last year. He cited the increase in tobacco prices and peanuts "three times their price a year and one-half ago" as examples of the president's "beneficence."

"I have called your attention," Mr. Howard said, "to our wonderful president, that I might compare statesmanship with pure maleducation and demagoguery and piffle."

"The present governor of the state of Georgia, during the terrible ordeal through which the people of this state have passed, has not only failed to co-operate with the great leader of this country, and with his party, but he has been one of the president's most severe critics."

Howard said that during the last legislative session "not one constructive piece of legislation in the interests of the farmer or the laboring man did this little political lion suggest to the general assembly."

"The race that Eugene Talmadge is running today is costing the taxpayers of this state more money than any other race in history. He is placing men upon the payrolls of the highway department, and other departments, that won't give one hour's service to the people of Georgia, but are running around over the state at the expense of the people of Georgia and drumming up crowds to see Talmadge 'put on a show'."

"Half the people of Georgia have awakened to the fact that Eugene Talmadge is not a fit man to head the democratic party in Georgia for the two remaining years of the term of the great president of the United States, to hinder and to criticize his every act in his struggle to again place this great nation in the highway to progress, peace and happiness."

"JUTE MONOPOLY" HIT BY LINDER IN SPEECH
GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 9.—Continuing his speaking tour through north Georgia, Talmadge Linder, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, in speeches here today assailed what he called was the jute monopoly and promised action to aid cotton farmers if he is elected.

Linder vigorously assailed the "jute trust," charging a monopoly is responsible for jute taking the place of thousands of bales of Georgia cotton.

"When congress put a processing tax of four and one-half cents a pound on cotton," he said, "it also put a processing tax of two and one-half cents a pound on jute which is shipped from India, duty free and takes the place in this country of from two to three million bales of cotton every year."

HAMMOND IS NAMED BY OWEN AT GRIFFIN

MAJOR ISSUE, PITTMAN STATES

Candidate at Newnan Says It's Question of 'FDR or Talmadge.'

NEWNAN, Ga., Aug. 9.—In a speech here Thursday night Judge Claude C. Pittman, bringing his gubernatorial campaign to Coweta county, declared that there is only one major issue in this race and that is whether Georgia shall travel with Eugene Talmadge or Franklin D. Roosevelt.

No amount of squawking, squawking and loose talk by Eugene Talmadge and his henchmen can obscure that issue or mislead the people," he said.

Introduced by William Y. Atkinson, solicitor-general of the Coweta circuit and son of the late Governor W. B. Atkinson, the Coweta jurist was presented to his audience as a man of "honesty, integrity and ability."

He stood shoulder to shoulder with him when we received our diplomas at college," said Atkinson, "and I can vouch for him to the utmost. As governor of Georgia, he will do honor to that high office and the people of this state need have no fear that their affairs of government will suffer."

Atkinson referred to the issue of "Talmadge vs. Roosevelt" in the gubernatorial campaign, declaring that "Governor Talmadge stands as the most bitter opponent of President Roosevelt among the democratic, public-spirited men of the United States."

Judge Pittman declared that Governor Talmadge has "spent more money for his own traveling expenses and for his own department than any governor in the last 10 years, yet he boasts of the economy that he has brought about at the expense of the school children of Georgia, the school teachers, the Confederate soldiers, the wards of the state at Milledgeville and at Alto."

"I condemn such economy," the candidate said, "and I believe that the Talmadge platform of two years ago in an effort to refute the governor's claims that he has carried out his pledges."

"Governor Talmadge has carried out one and one-half of his pledges—the $3 automobile tax and the reduction in the ad valorem tax. He has promised to abolish for a better form of taxation."

"He gave the $3 tag to the little man in order that he might give the same $3 tag to the big trucks and buses which are represented by his campaign manager, Hugh Howell."

Governor Talmadge gave you a reduction in the ad valorem tax. In doing so he gave the farmers a few dollars and from their children he took $1,200,000 per year."

One knows who got the bulk of the benefits under this reduction. The big corporations in the 14 large counties of Georgia saved hundreds of thousands of dollars. . . . the school children in the small and poor counties of Georgia lost the benefit of the reduction in the chance the state owes them to gain an education."

Judge Pittman also discussed his plan to "reduce interest rates, asserting that "this reduction will give owners of mortgaged farms and mortgaged homes a chance to retire the mortgage and get on their feet in line with the policy of the federal government in seeking to relieve the poor man."

He pledged the co-operation of his administration with the policy of the national administration on behalf of the poor man—the farmer and the laborer."

LAGRANGE HEARS PITTMAN ATTACK J. E. WHITLEY
LAGRANGE, Ga., Aug. 9.—Speaking in the home town of John E. Whitley, Georgia contractor and perennial enemy of the late Governor Talmadge, Judge Claude Pittman said here this afternoon that Talmadge and his henchmen have been trying to throw up a smoke screen in an effort to evade the real issues of the present gubernatorial campaign.

Judge Pittman declared, however, that "retribution is overtaking the 'House of Talmadge' and the people of Georgia are rising in revolt to redeem the state in the face of deception and bluff."

The speaker again took to task the LAGRANGE contractor, whose "starvation wages for workers on Georgia contracts has brought about his arrest and prosecution by the United States recovery administration."

"John Whitley and Eugene Talmadge belong to the 'old deal' or the 'raw deal,' he declared. "They would keep the honest laboring people of Georgia in a virtual state of peonage and through the power they wield, maintain the slave-driving tactics employed by Whitley in building Georgia."

"In Georgia it cost a 16-year-old boy $3 to kill a rabbit outside of his home county. Governor Talmadge is a Georgia Power Company man and he believes that a boy should pay as much for shooting one rabbit as the Greyhound Bus Company should pay for running one of its buses over a road for 12 months."

Governor Talmadge knows that it isn't right. The Georgia Power Company knows that it isn't right. Even The Atlanta Constitution is not so devoid of a sense of moral values that it believes such to be right," Judge Pittman said.

Macon Labor Recalls Invitation To Governor To Speak Labor Day

MACON, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A resolution crisply condemning "the inexcusable, unpatriotic stand Governor Talmadge has taken against the NRA" and withdrawing an invitation for him to speak here on Labor Day was passed tonight in a closed meeting of the Macon Federation of Trades.

The resolution asserts the governor's explanation of his position toward the NRA is a "brazen declaration," which "together with the approval and order of the deplorable wage scale, stamps his official approval upon violators of NRA codes and chiselers."

The federation voted to return to the governor a check for $20 which he had sent to be used for an advertisement of his scheduled Labor Day appearance here.

Governor Talmadge will speak at Central City park. Spokesmen for the federation of trades said after their meeting tonight that if the governor speaks here on Labor Day it will not be under the auspices of their organization or in Central City park, as the federation has exclusive rights at the park on that day.

A resolution recently passed unanimously by the executive board of the Macon Federation of Labor carrying similar condemnation of Governor Talmadge's attitude toward NRA codes, especially concerning state highway department contracts, was introduced by the Macon federation. There was some opposition.

The local resolution was signed by O. Morgan, president of the Macon federation and vice president of the Georgia federation; T. H. Gilman, first vice president; R. A. Godfrey, second vice president; J. H. Smith, E. C. Price and C. G. Pringle. Officials of the Bibb County Talmadge Club said tonight that the action of the trades organization would not interfere with local plans for an address by the chief executive here on Labor Day.

E. W. Maynard, president of the organization, and R. G. Plunkett, among the leaders, said there would be a huge barbecue here on that day, sponsored by the club, and that thousands are expected to attend.

Means To Modernize Homes Explained by FHA Officials

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The federal housing administration issued rules and regulations today under which banks and lending institutions may participate in the campaign to modernize and repair millions of American homes and commercial buildings.

Automatically the regulations eliminated a sizable number of property owners from the prospective borrowing by providing that property to be improved must be unincumbered by delinquent taxes or assessments.

For many home owners, however, the rules mean they will be able to get a new porch or install extra bath on about the same basis they would purchase a new automobile—on the installment plan.

The government will not advance the money. It will come from lending institutions such as banks and finance companies, which will charge no more than 5% or 10% interest on fees. This approximates the coverage rate for similar loans.

All types of residential and commercial structures fall within the scope of the program.

A borrower has only to establish the soundness of his credit and show that his annual income is five times the amount of the annual payments on his loans to obtain funds from a financial institution co-operating in the drive.

He need not put up security unless the lender is required by state law to obtain it.

To the lender the inducement to come into the modernization effort is government insurance against losses up to 20 per cent of their total modernization loans.

The housing administration hopes to loose thereby a flow of credit that virtually disappeared during the economic recession and to provide a powerful stimulus to the durable goods industries through resultant spending.

Lending institutions learned from the regulations today that to obtain the insurance they merely apply for an insurance contract issued by the housing administrator and good until December 31, 1935. The institutions themselves determine the eligibility for insurance of every note taken by them as security for modernization loans. Notes are insured automatically when accepted by the approved institutions.

Today's regulations—an even score of them—cover only national and institutional banks, but the government expects to extend them to all banks and building societies.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowls and a new movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason the bowls are out of place is in your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just clogs in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name "Carter's Little Liver Pills" on the red label. Request a substitute. Best drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Do you know why external remedies so seldom give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

FLETCHER EXCORIATES 'NEW DEAL' POLICIES

G. O. P. Chairman Opens Midwest Drive in Speech at Springfield, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Leading an attack upon the New Deal in 108-degree heat, Republican National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher today asked November votes for "the party of sound economic policies."

Fletcher was one of 20 speakers before the republican national convention, held on the hottest day in Springfield's history.

Other orators divided their fire, denouncing the democratic state and Chicago administrations as well as Washington officialdom.

Platform recommendations condemned the policies of the ruling democrats, but made no direct attack upon the president.

Enthusiasm was unlighted by platform temperatures as the Illinois republicans laid plans to return to political power. Estimates were that 10,000 persons were packed into the fairgrounds coliseum to sit through the long orations.

Speaking on the corn belt, Fletcher said: "The New Deal's NRA is strangling its AAA."

A new bird, the black crow, was placed in the political picture along with the Blue Eagle.

Fletcher said the democrats might require every farmer to paint a black crow on his gatepost as a condition to getting government money.

U. S. To Collect Taxes On Rum in Dry States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The government is going to collect taxes on all liquor sold in dry states, and the states may do as they please about arresting the taxpayers.

This, in effect, was disclosed today by Secretary Morgenthau as he dusted off for use an eight-year-old law providing for the imposition of a $1,000 federal excise tax on any body engaging in the liquor business in violation of state laws.

The tax collection records of the alcohol tax unit will be open to inspection, he pointed out, and should be a big help to local and state authorities that want to use them.

"The collectors of internal revenue have no option under the law of collecting all taxes relating to liquor, whether in wet or dry territory," Morgenthau said.

Russia Repays Loan On Cotton Purchase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Russia has repaid the $2,808,444 loan made to her a year ago by the Reconstruction Corporation to purchase American cotton.

Accompanying him was Joseph M. Schenck, motion picture executive. Ship's officers described Fairbanks as "the most cheerful passenger aboard."

Trio of Bandit Suspects Slain in Gun Battle

LEBO, Kan., Aug. 9.—(UP)—State police killed three suspected bank raiders in a bloody gun battle on a country road near here late today.

Bodies of the gunmen were taken to Emporia for positive identification as reports spread that they were Ray Hamilton, Joe Palmer and Blackie Thompson, who escaped from the deathhouse of the Texas penitentiary last month. The leader of the outlaws was known to be an escaped Texas convict.

A patrol car of state police encountered the trio in a valley a few miles from Neosho Rapids, about nine miles from here. When the officers drove alongside, occupants of the suspected car loosed a blast of gunfire, shattering the windshield of the patrol car.

The officers went into action with shotguns and machine rifles. The three suspects fell, mortally wounded, under the withering hail of lead.

The dead: C. W. Sheets Jr., 9; Margaret Holstead, 8; John Bailey, 9. Bon F. Bailey, 19; Anston Dodson, 21, one-armed driver of the car; Steve Thompson, 35.

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A warning to Franz von Papen not to mix in Austria's internal affairs here he arrives as German minister was broadcast throughout Europe tonight by Colonel Adam, Austrian propaganda chief.

"The success of the mission of von Papen, who will be greeted in Vienna not as a special representative of Chancellor Hitler, but as the minister from Germany," he said, "can depend upon nothing other than fulfilling the demand for honoring complete, legal, political independence of Austria, avoiding any interference with internal conditions even through social relationships."

Adam accused the German press of treating the putschists in the outbreak in which Chancellor Dollfuss was killed as heroes.

Pastor Becomes Violent, 'Strips' Nude on Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Aug. 9.—(UP)—A Baptist preacher, apparently suddenly deranged mentally, tore off his bathing suit, fought with six bulky lifeguards and rushed naked through a crowd at the beach here today.

The minister, Rev. H. H. Link, of Groveland, Fla., screamed strange religious phrases as he ran along the beach. He finally stopped to roll in the sand. The lifeguards caught him and after a furious battle dragged him to a blanket around him. He was taken to the county jail for detention and investigation.

Link appeared perfectly normal when he first arrived at the beach with his wife and five children. After a time he started scooping up handful after handful of sand and trying to swallow it. When his wife interfered, he became violent, pushed her away and went on his nude rampage.

Undernourished Babies Being Saved At Grady Through FERA Additions

By RALPH T. JONES.

A score of pitiful little morsels of skin and bone, babies so undernourished that malnutrition sores have broken out on many of them, babies whose heads are covered with tight drawn skin and whose arms and legs move feebly on their joints, are being fed back to rosy health and strength in the new children's ward on the top floor of Grady hospital.

Practically all of these little ones, victims of depression days, whose mothers cannot provide the nourishment they need, would have died before Grady hospital had its new children's ward. For there was then no means of saving them.

Today, in the bright, sunlit ward, with a diet kitchen adjoining where experts in baby feeding prepare the special foods needed, the majority will survive, to grow up into strong and healthy citizens of Georgia.

Superintendent John R. Franklin, of Grady hospital, is rather pathetically proud of the new children's ward, because it is so new, only opened this week.

"It means, literally, the difference between life and death for these little prodigals," he explains simply.

The children's ward is but one of the innumerable improvements that have been made at Grady through the expenditure of approximately $200,000 by the CWA and the FERA.

There is a new white maternity ward, several additional wards for white men and for white women, and there is a large and badly needed expansion of quarters for the colored clinic.

Large savings in operation have been effected by the centralization of the kitchen, the supply room, laboratory, sterilization plant, etc. Superintendent Franklin declared that the savings resulting from establishment of one central diet kitchen for the entire hospital, in place of half a dozen as previously, meant saving about $27,000 annually.

Without the addition of any new equipment but simply by placing it all in one ward, under the supervision of the chief engineer, there is now an place facility for sterilization, for instance, a service that in the old days used to be a constant problem.

A system has been installed in all wards whereby every patient may, if desired, secure privacy through movable curtains that hang around each bed.

The entire building is being refinished, in the interior, with sanitary wall finish and new paint. Private rooms where patients who have just come from the operating room may remain until the after effects of the anesthetic and the operation have passed, are now provided.

The machine and paint shop, which formerly provided a serious fire hazard as well as a noise nuisance when it was located immediately beneath the white maternity ward, has been moved to a new building of its own some distance from the hospital building proper.

New sun porches are being erected outside many of the wards. And a large new building on the colored wing, to remedy a serious condition of overcrowding, is well on with its construction.

But, with all the improvements, it is the children's wards on the roofs that are the chief pride of Superintendent Franklin and the Grady board of trustees.

Now children can lie in the sunshine, letting its healing rays bring new strength and health to convalescing bodies. In the wards proper each bed is divided from its neighbor's by glass partitions, which lessen the chance of infection, while permitting full ventilation.

There are special baths, special equipment for special treatments and everything required in the modern hospital.

And there is that children's diet kitchen, where enthusiastic nurses and dietitians, spotless in their linen uniforms, fill batteries of nursing bottles with the special foods best adapted to each little patient and from whence flows the strength-giving nourishment that hard times had cut off from the natural source.

Without the addition of any new equipment but simply by placing it all in one ward, under the supervision of the chief engineer, there is now an

MARY PICKFORD FILES DIVORCE AFFIDAVIT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Only a few hours after a report from London said Joseph M. Schenck, movie producer, was trying to effect a reconciliation between Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, an affidavit that Fairbanks had been served in publication in her divorce suit was filed in superior court here today.

Such an affidavit is largely a routine matter in connection with service on a defendant by publication. Miss Pickford's lawsuit, however, was filed two months ago that this method of serving Fairbanks would be used.

It was said at the courthouse, however, that filing the affidavit would definitely allow setting of the case soon for trial.

FAIRBANKS STAYS ON SHIP BOUND FOR UNITED STATES

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks Sr., arriving today on the liner Rex, remained aboard the ship, en route to New York, and did not disembark for London as had been suggested here.

Declining to discuss prospects of a reconciliation with Mary Pickford, Fairbanks said he is returning to the United States to make pictures, and intends going to California after one day.

Accompanying him was Joseph M. Schenck, motion picture executive. Ship's officers described Fairbanks as "the most cheerful passenger aboard."

COMMUNISM CALLED CHALLENGE OF CHURCH

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(AP)—One of the most direct challenges to Christianity is being made by communism, Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of the Southern Baptist convention, said in an address today to the world Baptist congress here.

Communism and Christianity march in opposite directions and churches must provide a substitute for communism or succumb to it, Dr. Dodd said.

"There are many voices crying above the confusion claiming to have a remedy for the sick world," the American churchman asserted. "Some of these voices are nationalism, bolshevism, industrialism and socialism. But their appeals are geographical, racial and class. They are therefore inadequate to meet the problems of the world. No remedy is adequate which does not have a universal application."

"But there is one other voice, communism, which does claim universal implications. It claims to transcend all boundaries. Communism asks for nothing less than world domination, even the dethronement of God and the overthrow of all existing order."

"Communism therefore stands as the one supreme challenge to Christianity. The giant stalks in the valley hurling defiance at Israel's God."

"To personally the situation: There are two Jews who challenge the world's attention and ask the world to follow them. One of them is Carl Marx, communist, and the other is Jesus, the Christ."

"Communism is motivated by selfish ends. Christianity is motivated by purpose. Communism says 'What is mine is mine. I will take it.' Christianity says 'What is mine is mine. You may have it as you need it.'"

"Communism starts and ends with temporariness; Christianity deals with the eternal."

Georgia Now Ready For 100,000 Cattle

Georgia, favored by good weather and a plentiful supply of feedstuffs, is ready to take care of 100,000 head of the cattle being shipped into the middle west, state emergency relief headquarters said Thursday.

With 25,000 cattle already distributed in the state, relief officials recently asked for an additional 40,000 head of the cattle and said they expected them within the next 10 days. Now they are notifying Washington officials the state can care for another 25,000 cattle.

Unwanted hay in bottom lands, city parks and along roadsides will be cut by relief workers when permission is received from owners. Relief officials have been instructed to ship the hay to the middle west.

The threatened shortage of feed crops for live stock has caused the federal department of agriculture to order a survey of every Georgia county to determine the available supply as of August 16.

Prices were 5.3 per cent above the low point of the year, compared with 74.7 the previous week and 100 for 1928.

The department's index number for the week ended August 4 was reported today by the labor department.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE TO RUN FOR SENATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Colonel Henry Breckinridge—assistant secretary of war in the Wilson administration and counsel to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh—has definitely decided to become an independent candidate for the United States senate.

Breckinridge, who took off on a flight to California late today, will run as the candidate of the newly formed constitutional party, it was authoritatively learned.

His decision followed circulation of petitions to place him in nomination for several days. The law requires 12,000 signatures, with no less than 50 being obtained in each of the 62 counties in the state.

A three-cornered race for the senatorial seat occupied by Royal S. Copeland was assured by Breckinridge's entrance. Copeland, whose support by the democratic organization is apparently not assured, and Thomas F. Conway, a close friend of President Roosevelt, are candidates for the democratic nomination. Meanwhile, no republican has announced his candidacy for that party's nomination.

THE "SILVER SHIRTS" PROBE.

The exclusion of the public from the congressional probe into communist activities in Los Angeles on the ground that the evidence is such as to possibly lead to international complications, emphasizes the necessity for a rigid inquiry into the purposes and methods of radical organizations in the United States.

There have been both governmental and private investigations of red activities, but the only fruit they have borne has been in the shape of recommendations which have been laid aside and soon forgotten. In the meantime these vicious organizations, and the radical agitators who head them, have continued their boring from within until they have gotten a foothold in every section of the country.

It is amazing that the American people are apparently willing to accept apathetically the development of such facts as have come out of the congressional investigation of the California "Silver Shirts" organization. It has been convincingly shown that this organization has seriously plotted the ultimate overthrow of the United States government, and has secured, through bribery, arms and ammunition from military sources.

Back of such organizations and of the activities of radical leaders who are busily fomenting strikes and unrest of all kinds from the Atlantic to the Pacific, are parent organizations in foreign countries. There can be no possible doubt that the communist organization in the United States is being supported from Russia, and that the Hitler government is sending many thousands of dollars to America for propaganda purposes and to aid in the formation of Nazi organizations here.

All of these organizations have as their chief objective the overthrow of the American form of government. Washington has the right not only to break them up and jail their leaders, but to deal sternly with the foreign governments involved.

There is only one way to deal with radicalism when it sticks its ugly head above the surface. That is to stamp it down in such a manner as will remove it as a threat to a law-abiding community. Atlanta, in the treatment accorded the communists who many months ago attempted to stir up strife here, furnished a fine example of how these malcontents should be dealt with.

With these agitators either behind the bars or out under heavy bonds, others of their ilk have given the city a wide berth. So while other cities have had to undergo violence and widespread unrest because of communist activities, we have been entirely free of trouble from this source.

What Atlanta has done should be done by every other city in the country and by the state and federal governments. If not, the canker of discontent will grow until its elimination will be a far more serious task than it is now.

PROTECTING THE TOTS.

During the past few days a shocking number of Atlanta children have been injured by automobiles, in practically every instance the motorist having been cleared of responsibility for the accident.

There is a moral obligation upon every operator of a vehicle, whatever its nature, on the public thoroughfares to exert every possible care to avoid injury to a child. The little tots and larger youngsters are too enthusiastic in their play to possess the proper regard for their safety, and all too often a game of tag or some similar amusement winds up with a boy or girl darting suddenly into the path of an oncoming automobile.

The great majority of automobilists would rather run the risk of injury to themselves than to run down one of these youngsters, but generally the crisis comes so suddenly that the driver is unable to prevent an accident.

All the more reason, therefore, that autoists when driving through sections where children are at play should move slowly and use every precaution. It is far better to be delayed somewhat in passing through such sections than to carry through life the memory of a little form crushed down.

No parent should permit a child to play unattended in the streets, and even under the watchful eyes of their elders the youngsters are liable to place themselves suddenly in the path of danger. Every child should have the peril of the streets firmly impressed upon his mind.

Greater watchfulness by parents and more care by motorists are necessary to prevent such a series of accidents as has saddened the city this week.

TWO DECADES OF UNREST.

Few periods in the history of the world have been so beset with revolution and unrest as the two decades that have elapsed since the beginning of the World War in 1914.

Since 1918, the United States News of Washington points out—Forty-five nations have been swept by revolutions, bloody and bloodless, or by revolutionary uprising of a serious nature. Governments have been toppled over, or gravely threatened, by force of the psychological, political and economic adjustment which became necessary following the close of the world's greatest war.

The Washington newspaper presents with its article a graphic map depicting in black and white the portions of the globe which have suffered from governmental changes and those which still have the same governments which existed when the great conflict began. It shows a great expanse of black, with but few white spots to indicate the countries where peace has prevailed.

In Europe, only Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland have escaped. The vast proportion of the continent and all of Asia have suffered either from war or from major conditions of unrest that have resulted in numerous revolutions.

In South America, likewise, internal disturbances and wars with their neighbors have been numerous with the Latin American nations. Only Colombia, Venezuela and Guiana, all on the northern border of the continent, have had no disturbances.

While the United States and Canada have been at peace, both internally and with the rest of the world, the North American continent has not escaped without its troubles, as Mexico underwent revolutions in 1920 and 1929.

Now, 16 years after the end of the "war to end wars," the world completes a period of record unrest to find conditions very largely similar to those that brought about the World War, with Austria seething and Germany a threat to the peace of the world.

During the years since the end of the war Great Britain and the United States, the two great Anglo-Saxon nations, have stood as practically the sole bulwark of world stability. They are still the best assurance that universal peace will not again fall before the animosities and antipathies of less level-headed peoples.

Turkey Decides For the Jews.

Reports recently came of the persecution of Jews in eastern Thrace, Turkey. The Jews have been known as cheese-makers there and as valuable middlemen and traders. Some attacks were made on them and several were killed. It seems that certain groups acted in cahoots with the Nazis in Germany. A weekly anti-Jewish paper was established in Constantinople, which reprinted the articles of Julius Streicher, editor of the "Sturmer," the most scurrilous anti-Semitic sheet in Germany. Refugees flocked into Constantinople and the 50,000 Jews living there grew alarmed. Now Ismet Pasha has told the great national assembly that the government intends to combat anti-Semitism with all the powers at its disposal. And when the Turks say a thing, they mean it.

World's Worst Wives.

Girls' schools and colleges provide the world's worst wives. This is the considered opinion of Dr. D. P. Wilson, the head of the institute of family relations at Los Angeles. "A college woman, when she becomes a wife," he told the Western Psychological Association, "makes more trouble than all the other classes of wives put together." And this is the reason: "A college woman is too ambitious, no full of ideals for any man to get on with." There seems one thing worse than college girls as wives—and that is the girl who has been to a girls' school. So what? So, sailors beware!

One Party Frock.

Women in Germany today need one party frock, according to an article in the Nazi Labor Front organ. "The day of modish elegance and of playing the lady in ridiculous finery is past," states a quotation extracted by Reuters's correspondent. "Nazism does not demand that all women should dress the same, and feminine love of variety can be given full scope in the private life. But simple and modest, with a moderate number of dresses suitable for work and sport and one party frock, are all that a German woman should want."

Mussolini tells his ladies: "Don't figure you will ever have prospective husbands. Hitler tells his girls: 'Modest dresses' introduces bread rationing and soon will have half of Germany's work masked."

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

POPULAR FALLACIES ABOUT FAT.

A correspondent says that he drank milk by the quart under the supervision of my learned colleagues, and by the gallon, in a futile attempt to gain weight, but his weight did not increase. However, since repeat he has been drinking about a quart of beer a day and he now weighs about what a man of his age, height and build should weigh. He has gained 25 pounds since he switched from milk to beer.

Another sophisticated layman assures me that any one who wishes to reduce can lose weight rapidly by just eating a lot of lemons.

First let us dispose of the beer and then the lemons. As explained here several times, a pint of beer yields 240 calories, if we assume that all the alcohol in it is oxidized in the body and utilized as a source of food to provide heat or energy. Certainly if an odor of alcohol or aldehyde is perceptible on the breath of an individual who has taken a pint of beer, not all the alcohol has been utilized by the body in place of food. But granting that the correspondent who thinks he grew fat on a quart of beer a day is capable of oxidizing and utilizing the ounces of alcohol in that much beer, he gets only 480 calories a day from the beer. He could get 480 calories from only 1-1/2 pints of milk or from one-half pint of cream, or from many other sources.

Second in importance is the matter of fair play or sportsmanship. What is fair for one must be fair for the other. As nature has made them different, so they will have different obligations and duties, but the liberty, confidence, loyalty, service, affection and respect required by one must be granted to the other.

Third in importance is courtesy. The marriage vows do not annul the obligations of good breeding. The privacy of home and the familiarity of constant association do not alter the requirements of good manners.

Fourth is the preservation of dignity. Without modesty and privacy, there is loss of self-respect; and any loss of self-respect is charged against the one who caused or witnessed it.

Little rules to govern the details of living are unnecessary, for equality, fairness, courtesy and dignity are comprehensive enough to cover every emergency.

Yet these can do no more than preserve a marriage that is happy and congenial in its beginning.

Those who would be "one flesh" must be one in spirit, and to achieve this union they must be of the same class and have similar standards and tastes, so that neither can feel scornful or inferior.

The married are comrades in arms—for one another against the world, instinctively and eternally loyal—or there is no marriage worth preserving.

News Behind the News

BY PAUL MALLON.

PIE WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Since the New Deal started, the patronage pie-men have been operating their hapless trade only as a side line. If you wanted a government job, as all good deserving democrats do, you pulled wires with the various government officials individually or collectively. There was no official counter where you could step up and ask for a slice.

The feeling seemed to permeate the New Dealers that the pie trade was a rather sordid business and should be ignored as much as possible.

That defect now has been remedied. The pie counter is officially open. In fact, it has been open for nearly a month now, but nothing has been said about it. The government press agents neglected to issue an official announcement.

However, you cannot keep good news down, and the word has been spread around that the place to go now, if you want a job, is not to the government departments but straight to the democratic national committee.

HUCKLEBERRIES A lot of people must have heard the news, because the line forms on the right, outside the office of Brother Emil. It's the seventh floor, National Press building. Turn to your right as you get off the elevator. You will find only a few hundred people ahead of you.

If you crash into the inner chamber of this political bakery, you will find that Brother Emil is Mr. Farley's good and efficient aide, Emil Hurja. Mr. Hurja is supposed to have been specializing in the housing commission huckleberry variety lately.

There have been some kickbacks, indicating that everyone Mr. Hurja okayed did not receive a housing job, but that certainly cannot be blamed on Mr. Hurja, because he is doing his part conscientiously and sincerely, with several assistants.

BLACK BOOK As a pie-man, Mr. Hurja has no peer. At his side constantly is a little black book. Some of his friends call it the cook book, but it is more than that.

In it the country is divided into congressional districts. The name of each senator, representative and democratic leader is listed under his local district. Beside his name is the list of federal jobs which already have been given to him, as well as a list of PWA projects granted for his district.

Accompanying these vital data is the recent Literary Digest poll for each state, showing how popular President Roosevelt is supposed to be in these states. Also included are the congressional and presidential election results in 1932.

From this, you can see Mr. Hurja has the matter down to an exact science. When anyone screams for pie, he can tell him in a second whether he has had enough and whether he rates any more.

He is not delivering pie to every Tom, Dick and Harry who comes in asserting he swung Walla Walla democratic in the last election.

SENSE Reformers may sneer at Mr. Hurja's efficiency, but good politicians will respect it. The wise boys have a growing conviction that Mr. Roosevelt has been entirely too impractical about this whole patronage business, from the start. It was all right to make appointments to the securities commission and such lofty idealistic organizations on a strictly non-partisan basis, but when it gets down to such things as housing, some sense of political self-preservation should be shown.

Also, no one is suggesting that Mr. Hurja is doing anything improper. He is merely taking care of the hungry and the faithful, and doing it in a way which will help best at the polls.

POWER The personnel director of the housing administration was removed quietly and suddenly a few days ago. No explanation was offered for his departure. No statements were issued. Men to whom he had promised jobs just failed to get them.

The whisper swept the inner housing circle, either justly or unjustly, that Mr. Hurja had discovered the fellow had republican blood in his veins.

OIL No one was ever happier about being sued than the petroleum board is about the latest suit brought against it by the oil companies. For a long time, the board has been trying to get a good test case into court. The members privately believe they cannot enforce the code until its constitutionality is affirmed by the supreme court.

No longer now can the justice department keep a test case from going to court.

The board is so joyous that some suspicious souls believe it had a hand in encouraging the filing of the suit.

SMOKE The big bosses of the NRA have been conferring, furtively and almost continuously, in the back room for the past week or more. The reason is supposed to be very much of an inside secret, but something more than cigar smoke has filtered through the doors.

It is considered almost a certainty that a reorganization is imminent; possibly, also, a retrenchment, a cut in staff and a new commission to run things.

Odds have been offered at 3 to 1 by those in the know that General Johnson will figure that his job is completed with the completion of the codes.

Whether They're Easy To Separate Depends On What Joins Them Together

By Robert Quillen

The fact that some men succeed in business is sufficient proof that others can if they use the same methods.

The fact that some people make a success of marriage is likewise proof that all people could if they would follow the same rules.

The rules are simple and differ little from the rules required to make all marriage successful.

First, there is the matter of authority. Unless one is competent and willing to lead and the other by nature or habit inclined to follow, there must be equality of rank. When there are decisions to make, and disagreements, they must find a solution by compromise, as adult equals do, without sullen surrender or ungenerous victory, remembering they are partners and not antagonists.

Second in importance is the matter of fair play or sportsmanship. What is fair for one must be fair for the other. As nature has made them different, so they will have different obligations and duties, but the liberty, confidence, loyalty, service, affection and respect required by one must be granted to the other.

Third in importance is courtesy. The marriage vows do not annul the obligations of good breeding. The privacy of home and the familiarity of constant association do not alter the requirements of good manners.

Fourth is the preservation of dignity. Without modesty and privacy, there is loss of self-respect; and any loss of self-respect is charged against the one who caused or witnessed it.

Little rules to govern the details of living are unnecessary, for equality, fairness, courtesy and dignity are comprehensive enough to cover every emergency.

Yet these can do no more than preserve a marriage that is happy and congenial in its beginning.

Those who would be "one flesh" must be one in spirit, and to achieve this union they must be of the same class and have similar standards and tastes, so that neither can feel scornful or inferior.

The married are comrades in arms—for one another against the world, instinctively and eternally loyal—or there is no marriage worth preserving.

Execution of Ruth Snyder and Sacco and Vanzetti, again was the grim workman.

The electric current was applied almost immediately with the complete adjustment of the mask and straps. Her head had been shaved of black hair for the electrode which was a part of the face mask.

Physicians determined at 10:17 p. m. eastern standard time, that Mrs. Antonio was dead.

"I'm going to the chair, but I am innocent. That's all I have to say. I thank you and wish you good luck all your life."

His turn came at 10:24 p. m., but one application of the lethal current was insufficient. After a physician's examination it was necessary to throw the switch again.

Saetta was smiling as he spoke a "Hello" to guards who put him in the chair.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

BANKING REPORT NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The senate banking committee displayed excellent timing in the release of its second report on the morals and methods of the investment bankers. The report was released two days after Representative James M. Beck and other statesmen had observed at Plymouth, Vt., the eleventh anniversary of the swearing-in of Calvin Coolidge by the light of an oil lamp.

The light of the oil lamp has been diligently exploited by sentimental republicans but it is good political hokum at that and its use is fair enough. However, Mr. Coolidge could have been sworn in by electric light if he had cared to come a little way down the mountain for that section of Vermont was not so homespun and homely but that there were modern conveniences, even including speak-easies, within easy distance of the old homestead. If there had been no oil lamp but only a candle stuck in a bottle he might have taken the ceremony after all. Because, while there is an honest simplicity about an oil lamp, the candle in the bottle is somewhat so sinister and low that the strip artists of the funny papers often use it to identify a scene as a kidnappers' cave or a waterfront dive.

Roosevelt Clear Mr. Coolidge's record marks on that occasion are not at hand but it is easy to remember what Mr. Roosevelt said when he was sworn in on the front steps of the capitol a year ago last March. Mr. Roosevelt said the money-changers were going to be driven out of the temple and he followed this promise up a year later with a message to congress in which he lumped them together with the kidnapers and other racketeers.

In reviewing Mr. Coolidge's presidency, Mr. Beck said he clearly saw the vicious effect of interference by the government in the affairs of the people.

"All the stored wealth of America is due to the right of the individual man to sell his labor, whether of brain or muscle, in his own discretion, to earn more than he spends and thus accumulate a surplus," Mr. Beck said.

The investment bankers, in the exercise of their precious American right to accumulate a surplus, resorted, as the senate banking committee found, to methods which were in violation of the most elementary principles of business ethics.

The report also discusses the famous "preferred lists."

"Public officials who consent to participate in preferred lists swiftly find themselves in a position where their usefulness is seriously impaired and they incur the danger of forfeiting the respect of the public," the document says.

"Implicit in the bestowal of favors on this magnificent scale is a pervasive assumption of power and privilege. Implicit in the acceptance of such favors is a record of that power and privilege. The 'preferred lists' with all their grave implications, cast a shadow over the entire financial scheme."

The report then drops in a reminder that Mr. Coolidge was one of the prominent Americans whose names were found on the preferred lists.

It is true that Mr. Coolidge did not avail himself of this opportunity to add to his surplus until he had left the White House.

Private Citizen Nevertheless, as a private citizen, Mr. Coolidge has great political importance that even to this day the anniversary of his inauguration is made an occasion for a political rally at his old home town. The same considerations which would have deterred Mr. Coolidge from accepting such favors while he was in office therefore did not abruptly expire the hour that he had done his bit and turned the job over to Mr. Hoover. It is not his reputation that he was a man so lovable, personally, that a financier should wish to do him such a favor out of personal friendship. It law should be fair and just. I am satisfied that it has been in these cases. Likewise, the administration of justice must be definite and certain, so that society may be protected and respect and observance of the law maintained.

Two Bandits Capture County Bloodhounds Efforts of Fulton county police to capture two white men who held up and robbed F. N. Norris, the proprietor of the old Curtis Lodge, on Gordon road, Thursday night and escaped with $4 were rewarded when two of the bloodhounds the posse was using in trailing the robbers were found badly beaten and apparently strangled.

The posse of county policemen, led by Lieutenant W. Wells, sent the pack of baying bloodhounds after the robbers within a few minutes after the bandits had held up the resort. When the dogs were recalled it was found that two were missing. The officers, retracing their steps, found the dogs in the woods which border the Chattahoochee river near the lodge. They had been captured by the fleeing bandits, muzzled or strangled and released after danger of immediate betrayal was past, according to Lieutenant Wells.

It is more likely that his position, even as a private citizen, was an important consideration. Otherwise a few of the sentimental politicians who see might have been found on the lists. The financiers did not toss their favors around promiscuously.

Perhaps it would explain things and straighten out the record to admit that when Mr. Coolidge did accept the favor he permanently disqualified himself for public office.

Roy LeCraw Speaks To Police Officers

Roy LeCraw, candidate for mayor of Atlanta, promised to establish a permanent registration list and to "make every eligible citizen a taxpayer" if he is elected. He spoke last night to the morning watch at the police station and will, tomorrow, the day watch at 8 o'clock this morning.

LeCraw, former head of the Chamber of Commerce here and a well-known business leader, was accompanied last night by Harry C. Poole Jr., Bill Edens and James Edens, the latter the chairman of the third ward "LeCraw for Mayor" club. The candidate told the policemen that if his campaign is successful he will raise the city's revenue so that living wages can be paid to all employees and the city's debts be eliminated.

Economic Self-Dependence Is Goal Set Up by Manchukuo

"Open Door" Neither Open Nor Shut as World Waits To See How It Will Swing.

(This is the twenty-second in Mr. Clarke's series of articles on the Far East.)

By FRANCIS W. CLARKE.

HSINKING, Manchukuo. (By Mail) The nations of the world, especially those with large export trade, are watching the economic situation in Manchukuo with no less an eagle eye than they are the political developments within the new state.

The answer sought by this wary watching is as to whether the open door is going to remain open in Manchukuo, or whether it will be shut, with Japanese industrialists and exporting interests gobbling up the rich trade of this fast-developing territory.

At present the door is neither open nor shut, but somewhat slightly ajar—and sound logic based on physical conditions impels the belief that such will be its position at least during the years in which the new state will be coming into its own as a self-fledged and fully independent and self-dependent nation.

For this belief there are two convincing reasons—the natural inclination of the Japanese business and industrial leaders who are so largely responsible for the expansion now going on in Manchukuo to buy what they need from the industries of their own country, and the ability of Japanese industrialists to undersell their competitors in the contest for Manchukuan orders.

Great Britain, the United States and other exporting nations are now complaining about the "cut-throat competition" of the Japanese exporters in practically every large market in the world.

If the Japanese can undersell in these markets many thousands of miles away from their homelands, what chance will outside bidders have for orders from Manchukuo, only a few hours' time away from Japan?

The answer is a simple "none," and the open door might as well be shut, therefore, so far as foreign competition as foreign competition is concerned.

The great Japanese business interests in Manchukuo are frank in admitting that the only open tenders they ask are those submitted by Japanese firms. In view of the overwhelming volume of Manchurian purchases now being made by the Japanese firms and their affiliates, this situation comprises, without doubt, the chief export items of other nations, especially in the case of the United States. They point out that they do not produce automobiles, farm machinery or oils and that they must import much wood and other raw materials, not only for their own industries but for the development work going on in Manchukuo.

Manchukuo Leader

Chang Yen Ching, minister for industry, Manchukuo government.

To further complicate the uncertain economic and trade future in Manchukuo, there looms the practical certainty that the development of its magnificent natural resources, and the broadening of its industrial activities will make the new state, as the years go by, less and less a market for foreign-manufactured commodities and for raw materials of all kinds.

Variety of Resources. Probably no section on the face of the earth has so wide a variety of the basic natural resources as has Manchukuo. It has coal, iron, gold, marble, granite, clays of all kinds, a full variety of agricultural crops, with a great cash crop in the soy bean, and can produce cattle and sheep for meat, leather and wool.

It is significant that while the new government is driving ahead to complete its official structure, lighten the load of taxation and extend public service—a tremendous and exacting task—it is at the same time devoting tireless effort to a reconstruction—perhaps more correctly, to the building of a sound economic structure.

Change in Charge. In direct charge of this all-important work is Chang Yen Ching, minister of industry, which includes commerce, mining and agriculture, for the new government. It is significant that in awarding the various departments to Chang, one of the keenest minded and generally outstanding members of the new government should have been given the task of creating a new economic system for the country.

An interview with Minister Chang is more difficult to secure than one with the prime minister, or even an audience with the emperor, because he is too busy. Mentally alert, he gives the appearance of a live-wire American business executive, and is the one member of the Manchukuo government who goes about his daily duties in a well-tailored sack suit instead

Unions But No Strikes Favored for Firemen

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 9. (AP)—If firemen want to form a union, they should have the right to do so, says President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor—but they would not strike.

"An organization of firemen is comparable to a union of mail clerks, letter carriers, both of whom are organized," he said. "Firemen would not resort to strikes, but would advance their interest in a legitimate way."

of the more cumbersome robes of the average Chinese official.

To Develop Resources.

According to Minister Chang "Manchukuo's greatest endeavor now, from an economic standpoint, is to develop its natural resources as to make possible a proper balancing of her exports and imports."

"Endowed by nature with a rich supply of varied resources, we can be largely self-sufficient with regard to many of the major necessities. These resources we are endeavoring to develop so that those we have need not buy elsewhere, and so that what we must buy from other nations will be balanced by the sale of our products to the rest of the world must buy from us."

"In no respect is our development planned on a competitive basis, where we would come in commercial conflict with other countries. All that we are going to do is to take advantage of our good fortune in possessing natural resources the equal, if not the superior, of any other country of equal size in the world, so that our people will benefit from their fortunate position in this respect."

Production Light.

"The fact that the development of a new economic system in Manchuria will not upset existing trade conditions is illustrated by our progress with reference to cotton production in the southern part of Manchukuo. Despite the fact that we have only four cotton mills in Manchukuo—which use only cotton produced in Asia—our production is still far too small to accommodate their needs, and represents a small portion of the staple needed to supply the demand for cotton textiles in Manchukuo."

"As a cotton producer we never expect to be a competitor of America, even within our own boundaries, as the cotton we will raise will be for the short staple variety of American cotton."

"So it is with woods. We have many extensive forests in the northern and eastern section of the country, but they are not sufficient to supply all of our needs. We are driving toward the enlargement of our production of coal, iron, wool, meat and agricultural products, but in all kinds, but in many years before we can expect to be self-dependent. Thus our program cannot disturb existing world trade conditions. Over the long term, our program will, on the contrary, cause, during the next few years at least, an increase in our purchases despite our expansion of our own industry."

Bean Leads.

"Our greatest product is the soy bean. We realize that if we are to continue to sell to the balance of the world, as the United States sells its cotton, we must buy from other nations sufficiently to bring about a healthy and mutually beneficial balance of trade."

Five years ago the writer of this article spent several weeks in a careful survey of conditions existing in Manchukuo, then under the control of Chang Hsiang-shan, the Japanese, leased territory and along the line of the Japanese-owned South Manchurian railroad, fine ports, live cities and industrial and agricultural activity were in evidence. But outside of this zone—a small one in comparison to the great size of all Manchuria—there was nothing of prosperity or modern development. Government ruled by force and graft and nothing was being done toward the development of the vast and rich natural resources of the territory.

Heading for Power.

At that time I predicted that "granted a reign of peace, and with the coming of good government, Manchuria, increasing in population at the rate of more than 1,000,000 a year, is destined in another quarter of a century to become, next to Japan, the dominating influence in the far east."

Such statements as the one here presented from Minister Chang reveal how far along the way Manchuria is to the goal of that prediction. Five years ago—a progress accomplished during the two years that have passed since the Mukden incident.

If the earnest efforts of the Chinese and Japanese leaders who are now laboring day and night toward the creation of a new and self-sufficient nation, and if the dread oriental specter of graft in public office can be kept down, it will be much less than the predicted quarter of a century before Manchuria will wield a powerful influence over far eastern affairs, both economic and political.

In view of the tremendous progress of the past five years, the next five and ten-year periods in Manchuria are likely to witness a development, and a spiritual awakening among a population of 30,000,000 people, that have never been surpassed in history.

Pons', Schipa's Bags Seized for Taxes

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 9. (AP)—Claims for taxes resulted today in judicial embargoes being placed upon the baggage and personal effects of two noted opera singers, Lily Pons and Tito Schipa.

A representative of the latter said, however, that the embargo was lifted after a settlement was made and Miss Pons was said to be making similar arrangements.

The action was taken on petition of the income tax department which stated that Miss Pons owes 16,595 pesos ($1,600) and Schipa 3,583 pesos.

The orders were filed holding the property in their respective apartments of the two singers.

Both have been appearing here in concerts before packed houses. Miss Pons had planned to leave tomorrow night for Rio de Janeiro on the ship on which her fiancé, Dr. Frederick Von Der Roewe, is ship's surgeon, immediately after a farewell concert. Schipa is expected to leave soon.

Sails Today for U. S.

PARIS, Aug. 9. (AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt Sr., who has "made the biggest hit in Paris since Lindbergh," is sailing tomorrow on the Ile De France, eager to get home and see her famous son, the American president.

She will get up at 6:30 a. m. and motor to Havre after 22 days in Paris, during which she displayed a degree of energy that amazed the French. She leaves a trail of admirers.

Friends said she all but wore out Count Serge Fleury, representative of the foreign office, delegated to show her around.

"Mrs. Roosevelt speaks fluent French and knows Paris like a book," said a friend. "She started showing the count things about Paris museums that he didn't know himself."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Hugh S. Johnson today fixed ice prices for a 90-day period in the parishes of Orleans, Jefferson and Saint Bernard, La., which includes New Orleans.

The action was said to have been taken because of destructive price cutting due to heavy overproduction.

GREEN ACTS TO REOPEN HARRIMAN MILLS CASE

Labor Federation Head To Confer With Johnson on Saturday.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 9. (AP)—Pressing for action on demands that an agreement satisfactory to labor be made in the Harriman (Tenn.) Hosier Mills case, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, arranged today to confer with General Hugh S. Johnson in Washington Saturday.

Green summoned the labor advisory board of the NRA to confer with Johnson at 10 a. m. and said he would present at the meeting the attitude of the executive council of the labor federation on the Harriman case.

The executive council in session here on Tuesday urged Johnson to "repudiate" the action of A. R. Glancy, divisional compliance representative, who ordered the Blue Eagle restored to the Harriman company, which had been charged with violating the collective bargaining provisions of the NRA.

Green said the agreement under which the Blue Eagle was restored was unsatisfactory to labor, and the case would be used as a test of section 7-A of the NRA which guaranteed workers the right to organize and to engage in collective bargaining.

A warning that hours of labor must be shortened or industry must be taxed for care of the unemployed was sounded by Matthew Woll, vice president of the federation.

Woll, who said labor was "in sympathy" with much done under the NRA, asserted the principles on which NRA was founded "must in some way be continued" when the recovery act expires next June.

Addressing the Atlantic City Kiwanis Club, Woll, who is attending a 10-day session of the federation's executive council, reviewed "with apprehension" changes in governments abroad, and expressed the hope American industry would build a prosperous nation "not upon the conditions and life of the peoples abroad, but upon conditions and life at home."

Youth Fails in Attempt To Sail Atlantic Alone

FLAGLER BEACH, Fla., Aug. 9. (AP)—Alfred Lastinger's attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean in a 10-foot sailboat ended today 20 miles north of his starting point after a desperate race for shore in the badly leaking vessel.

"It was just a tough break," said the 23-year-old sailor, exhausted after two days of almost continuous pumping. "You can say I've already made plans to repair the Miss Florida and try it again about June 1 of next year."

$1,600,000,000 NEEDED FOR HOUSING PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, said today $1,600,000,000 was a conservative estimate of the amount of money needed to put the country's homes in good physical condition.

In an address at the National Press Club, Moffett said the administration's modernization program would find an even broader market than the $1,600,000,000 as it would apply to loans made by private institutions for commercial structures as well as homes.

GOOD GIRL

By PEGGY GADDIS.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

At last it was time for the lunch engagement that would be her last luncheon as Calissa Logan! She was to meet Kent at the same downtown hotel where she had encountered him on her first afternoon in town and she hurried a little, her heart running ahead of her hurrying feet, straining forward for a first glimpse of her beloved. But as she entered the lobby her heart fell a little—there was no sign of Kent!

She sat down to wait, and as she waited the hands of the clock crawled forward until a quarter after one, then one-thirty, then a quarter of two. Calissa's lovely eyes were beginning to wear a frightened look when at last a man came toward her. But as she recognized him, she shrank a little, afraid; it was not Kent, but Johnny Ainsworth.

He stood looking down at her, an expression of cold contempt in his eyes, and he said, levelly, "Kent's waiting for you outside—will you hurry? He's not allowed to park there more than five minutes!"

Dumbly, docilely, Calissa rose and walked with him out of the hotel lobby, fear and dismay and desolation dragging at her heels. She was sick and shaken with the knowledge that Kent had been with Johnny—and of course Johnny had told Kent what he suspected, and what he knew—or thought he knew.

Her eyes filled at sight of the big cream colored car with Kent at the wheel. A Kent who looked at her coldly, as though he hated her, and who swung the door of the car for her to get in, and who, once she was settled, said over her head to Johnny, "See you at the Rodgers' tonight!"

The car leaped forward and out Peachtree street, and Kent had spoken no word to Calissa who sat dumbly beside him, stealing little furtive, frightened glances up at him.

After a moment, she managed to ask, fearfully, "Are we—are we going to be married, now?"

Kent gave her the edge of a contemptuous glance.

"You can ask that—after knowing that I have spent the morning with Johnny Ainsworth," he asked, grimly, as though she needed no further answer. Straight through the noonday traffic and out Peachtree road, until at last he came to a side road. Kent drove the car, without another word.

At the foot of the hill, with woods surrounding them, lonely and quiet, Kent brought the car to a halt and turned to Calissa, his young face grim and set.

"I telephoned Johnny this morning, and asked him to be my best man," he began, without preamble. "He told me to 'hold everything' and come straight downtown to meet me. He told me quite a few things, but—"

"What else can I say? I told you how it all happened, and you—"

"You suppose I'd be—suffering like this, if I didn't love you?" he demanded, brusquely.

"It is so hard to believe—if you love me," Calissa asked, gently.

Kent turned on her, almost furiously.

"It's practically impossible to believe, under the circumstances," he told her, roughly. "For the truth of the matter is—I didn't call Johnny at all—he telephoned me at the hotel—because Gordon had telephoned him, warning him that—"

"—a man he knows well is in love with the girl—you see, Calissa, it all ties up pretty well! Norman couldn't very well have you remain in Stanley Mills—the town is too small and everybody knows everybody else—"

Calissa cut in sharply, amazed, incredulous.

"Norman? Do you mean—of being—to—accuse me of being—of—being—in love with that man?" She was furious, and amazed.

"I'm waiting now, Calissa, to hear your side of the story! I—imagine you know something of what Johnny told me!"

Calissa swallowed hard, and managed to ask, faintly, "What was it Johnny told you?"

"That the girl you are living with is not working for Gordon, although her funds come from him—and that you must know the whole situation, living there..."

Calissa interrupted, dryly. "And you believe what he implied?"

"Good Lord, Calissa, what am I to believe?" he asked, hotly. "I know what you were in Stanley Mills—clean and decent and—"

There was bitterness, and pain, and jealousy in his voice, and Calissa, her heart sinking heavily, knew that she must tell him the whole story now, at a most unfavorable moment! If only she had told him last night! If only she had told him of her own free will instead of waiting to be forced by Johnny's disclosure.

"I'm waiting, Calissa!" said Kent, sharply, after a moment, and she looked up. The tortured look in his eyes released her tongue.

"All right—I'll tell you," she whispered, and began at the moment when Mrs. Stanley had ordered her discharged, and Norman had come to her, offering her this chance in Atlanta.

As she told Kent of Norman's advancing her money, she saw that he frowned a little, and she rushed on. When she told him of her buying lavishly for her, and charging it to Gordon's account, he looked even more displeased and angry. But she went doggedly on, until she had finished, and then she said, spreading her hands, palm upward with a little gesture of resignation that was, somehow, odd and pathetic.

"And that's all, Kent—I thought you loved me!"

"It's that—all you have to say, Calissa?" he asked, heavily.

"She turned a white face and heavy eyes to him."

"What else can I say? I told you how it all happened, and you—"

Without a word, she started the big car and turned it back toward town. Neither of the spoke as it traversed the distance with space-eating speed, but when it paused in front of the apartment house and Calissa started to get out, she stumbled because she was blind with tears, but she evaded Kent's hand, and without a word ran up the steps and through the entrance of the apartment.

There she paused, and turned, to see the car drive away. It was all she could do to reach her own room without giving way to tears, but she did it. She lay face down across the bed, weeping as though her heart would break.

It was over. The dream that had lived in her heart since that night at the pavilion when Kent had walked across the floor, with his air of a conquering hero, and had taken her from Bill Evans, claiming a dance with her as though it were his right.

Continued Tomorrow.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

FROM LOG TO OCEAN LINER.

X—"Super-Liners."

When I read, not very long ago, that the Leviathan was to be taken out of Atlantic service, I was rather sorry; for I used the great boat on a voyage to Europe in 1928 and while on board met interesting people who have remained my friends.

A Quebec-to-Cherbourg record was set up last summer when the Empress of Britain made the voyage in four days, seven and one-half hours. This was not such a long voyage as the Rex made, but it was an example of high speed for the sea.

The super-liner Normandie was launched in 1932, but troubles have kept it from getting into Atlantic service. My latest word is that the owners expect it to cross the Atlantic the coming year, in the month of June. The Normandie is 1,027 feet long, which means that it is the first vessel longer than the Eiffel tower is tall. Its length, however, is not so great as the height of the Empire State building. The Normandie is to have a gross tonnage of about 75,000.

Another super-liner, not named as I write but called at present the 534, is being built near Glasgow, Scotland. From keel to top of highest funnel, it will be as tall as a 15-story building. The rudder alone will weigh 140 tons. The new vessel will be part of the Cunard White Star service, and is scheduled to be launched and named late next month. It is to have a length of 1,018 feet, and a tonnage of 73,000.

The leaflet called "Marvels of the Sky" contains a diagram showing sizes of the planets and their distance from the sun. It tells about Donati's comet and other wonders. If you want a copy, send a 3c stamped return envelope to me in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

HEARING ON GAS RATES ADJOURNED BY BOARD

Postponement To Allow Agreement on Evidence
To Be Submitted.

The Georgia public service commission's inquiry into gas rates in Georgia was adjourned until further call Thursday to permit representatives of the state and the gas companies to agree on specific evidence to be submitted.

After hearing the case Wednesday of the Savannah Gas Company, the commission yesterday called the case of Calhoun, Ga., which is served with gas by the Georgia Natural Gas Corporation, which also supplied service to eight other Georgia cities.

Robert C. Alston, Atlanta attorney for the companies, read into the record an answer in which it was said the companies have since May 1, 1929, spent $4,500,000 in rebuilding and extending their gas lines in the state and that the revenues from the sale of gas have greatly decreased.

Assistant Attorney General John Gore asked if the answer was all of the evidence the companies desired to submit, and when assured that it was the commission adjourned the hearing until certain other specific evidence could be obtained.

In addition to the Georgia Natural Gas Corporation, six other gas companies are affected by the inquiry. They are the Atlanta Gas Company, the Georgia Public Utilities Company, the Macon Gas Company, the Valdosta Gas Company, the Consumer's Gas and Coke Company, and the Georgia Public Utilities Corporation.

SENIOR POLICEMAN IN HOSPITAL AFTER TRIP TO LORRAINE

Steve Felder, 65, Atlanta's oldest policeman in active service, is at Georgia Baptist hospital recuperating from an operation performed last Saturday. Steve is smiling. He is happy, not only because attendants at the hospital say he'll be up and around soon, but because he has fulfilled a dream. Steve has revisited his fatherland, Lorraine, after an absence of 45 years, 39 of which were spent on the Atlanta police force.

Though illness overtook Steve before he could revisit his boyhood haunts and kept him confined in a hospital for five days, he reached the fatherland and enjoyed a reunion with his three brothers and three sisters.

He returned to Atlanta Friday and was immediately admitted to the hospital here for the operation.

For 22 years Steve patrolled Decatur street and only a year ago was moved to duty on the north side, but whether he was on Decatur street or the north side he gave thought to that dream of returning to the fatherland.

Much has happened in the fatherland during the time Steve wore the blue uniform of the Atlanta police. Wars had torn his happy homeland. Lorraine was a province in Germany when Steve came to America 45 years ago. Then the French won the contested strip of land. But Steve, an American, wanted to go back there and see the sights familiar to his boyhood days. His fellow officers on the police force sadly said he'd never make it.

Steve made it and he's happy, and they say at the hospital it won't be long before they'll permit him to return to his home at 796 Amsterdam avenue, N. E., soon Steve will be back on his beat with a laugh for his fellow bluecoats who said he "couldn't make it."

rites for T. L. COOPER WILL BE HELD TODAY

The Rev. Louis T. Wilds, of Hendersonville, N. C., will officiate and burial will be in Decatur cemetery with Brandon-Bond-Condon in charge.

He has been confined to his home in Decatur since he returned early in the spring from his winter home at Clearwater, Fla.

Gang Term Preferred Before Sterilization

J. L. Williams, escaped life-terminer from Oklahoma penitentiary, prefers the Georgia chain gang to being sterilized and pleaded guilty Thursday to two charges of burglary for which he was sentenced to serve 45 years.

Williams, told Judge John D. Humphries he did not want to go back to Oklahoma, "where they sterilize you for a second offense," and joined in the laughter which arose in the courtroom.

Williams admitted that he burglarized safes of Jewel Tea Company and Automobile Piston Company.

We had to Build THE WORLD'S NEWEST, BIGGEST, MOST MODERN REFINING UNIT TO CREATE

new-action

PROCESS PROTECTED BY U. S. PATENTS

TO create "New-Action" Orange American Gas with existing refinery facilities was impossible. We had to build a new refinery—to adapt an entirely different principle of refining to produce "New-Action" Orange American Gas.

MORE ENERGY FROM THE CRUDE OILS

Up to now a great deal of the energy and other valuable properties in basic crude oil have been going to waste. With existing equipment, it has been impossible to convert the full value of the raw crudes into finished gasoline.

The petroleum industry has spent millions trying to put more of the undeveloped properties in the raw crude to work. And that's just what's been accomplished in the mammoth new refining unit just completed by the American Oil Company at Texas City, Texas.

NEW SUSTAINING* POWER

By a new and different refining principle, "New-Action" Orange American Gas is scientifically balanced, has no idle components, no dead or waste ends, and what's more, has greater SUSTAINING* POWER. The superior properties built-in the gasoline at the refinery "stay put" under actual working conditions in your motor, with less loss of efficiency between refinery and road performance than has ever before been possible.

NEW PERFORMANCE ON THE ROAD

That ability of "New-Action" Orange American Gas to sustain its quality is distinctly new among gasolines. It is of the utmost value to you, as a motorist, concerned with the quality of the gasoline you put into your car, rather than with its quality at the refinery.

"New-Action" Orange American Gas brings you sustained new action—better anti-knock—surer power—easier riding—quicker starting—readier acceleration—more miles—better performance and lower costs!

Try "New-Action" Orange American! It's truly the last word in regular gasoline—years ahead of any regular gasoline you've ever used—tomorrow's gasoline today. Sold at regular gas price by thousands of American dealers and stations from Maine to Florida and inland.

*SUSTAINING POWER—the retaining of efficiency between refinery and road performance.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS

about the world's biggest, best, newest refining unit at Texas City, Texas

The refinery covers 450 acres of land.

It required an average of 2,600 men per day—a period of nine months to actually construct the refinery (aside from time consumed in planning).

The refining unit is the most modern in the world—adopting the latest discoveries and innovations in the art of refining.

An idea of the mammoth size of the refining unit can be obtained from the following:

1. In a single operating day, this unit will produce enough gasoline to run an average automobile 9,000,000 miles, or about 360 times around the earth at the equator.
2. Six 8-room houses could be set inside a single one of its furnaces.
3. One of its fractionating towers—most massive ever built—is as high as a seven-story building.
4. 40½ miles of piping were used just in two furnaces to provide the required heat exchange surface.
5. This unit will turn out enough heavy bunker oil in a single day to produce, if used in making electric power, current sufficient to provide the home lighting requirements of 2,000,000 people.
6. In addition, large quantities of kerosene, furnace oil for home heating, and gas are made.

Cannaday-Van Voorheis Rites Performed at Church in New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The interest of Atlanta will be focused upon the marriage of Miss Virginia Adelaide Cannaday to Miss Liburne van Voorheis, because the bride is the niece of Mrs. Dudley Cowles, and the bridegroom is a nephew of Mrs. Dudley Glass, well-known Atlantans. The ceremony was performed on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, at Park Avenue Presbyterian church, by Dr. Edmund M. Wylie. The altar decorations featured green and white, palms and ferns, and candelabra holding white tapers, carrying out the effective note.

Mrs. Katherine Cannaday Maloff, only sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a gown of mouseline de soie, printed in shades of rose combined with black and worn with a picture hat of black straw. She carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Richard Crosby van Voorheis acted as his brother's best man. The bride entered with her father, Frederick Cannaday, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a smart ensemble of printed chiffon in tones of powder blue and trimmed with navy blue buttons and bindings. Her hat was a Leghorn model banded in two-toned blue ribbon, and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Frederick Cannaday, mother of the bride, was gowned in blue and white printed crepe, worn with a stitched blue taffeta hat, and her corsage was of white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. van Voorheis sailed on the steamer Haiti, for Port-au-Prince, Haiti, to visit the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter van Voorheis. After September 4, Mr. and Mrs. van Voorheis will be at home at 345 East Fifty-seventh street, in Sutton Place section.

The bride is well known in Atlanta, where she often visited her maternal uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Cowles, of Andrews drive, and by reason of her four years spent at Agnes Scott and Brenau Colleges. The bridegroom is a member of the law firm of Sherman & Sterling, of New York city.

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Write Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield—Three years ago I married a widower with two children. I resolved that I would be a good stepmother to them if I lay within my power. I have failed because I am a horribly jealous of their affection for their father and of his for them. Outwardly I have done my duty. Everyone points me out as a model stepmother, but my husband and I know better. As the time for his coming approaches I say to myself, "I now have a natural and affectionate son with him. He loves me and I love him and his relation to the children doesn't touch what we feel for each other." Then he comes. The children run to meet him and he is so taken up with them that he hardly notices me. By this time I have done my duty. I have been a mother, a sister, a friend, a confidante, a hold back my tears. When the children are in bed we thrash it out. I acknowledge that I have been foolish. I vow I will never behave so again. But he knows, and I do too, that the next time the children come between me and my husband, I will make him suffer for it. It is impossible to rear children in this atmosphere without doing irreparable damage to them. Can you help me?

STEEP MOTHER.

Answer: The only thing you can do is to fight for self-control and fight until you have acquired it. You must not let them change your jealous nature but you must learn to control it. You cannot escape from the suffering it causes you but you can confine the suffering to your own heart and refuse to spread it like a pall over your home. Dostoevsky says the jealous is a thousand deaths for love which is true. Worse, they try to make their loved ones suffer the same pangs.

In the last analysis we are all somewhat selfish, trying to secure our happiness. Instinctively we fight for what we want just as the animals fight for food. Yet we have a distinct advantage over the animals for we can reason. When by that process we discover that sometimes fighting doesn't get us what we want but rather deprives us of it, we can turn around and resort to other methods. A woman can't make her husband warm toward her by freezing into a block of ice at the sight of his response to the affectionate greeting of his children, nor by sitting silent at the supper table blinking back her tears. From the purely selfish standpoint she has to try another tack.

Now see what you are doing, dear woman, you are penalizing the man you love for being an affectionate and responsive father to his motherless children. You are destroying the priceless ingredient of a happy home—peace. You are laying a heavy burden on the lives of innocent little children. All of this damage is being done in your fight for your husband's love. What is it now you are always saying to yourself, "I am a selfish, shame and self-reproaches, and if you don't watch out you will alienate both husband and children."

The children may not be able to put into words what they sense but they sense the fact that a black cloud hovers over their home. It will shadow them now and always and you suggest irreparable damage will be done to their lives.

Pity for your husband caught be-

U. S. CONSULATE IN CUBA RANSACKED IN NIGHT

CIENFUEGOS, Cuba, Aug. 9.—(AP) Thieves ransacked the United States consulate here last night but nothing was reported stolen.

Between the upper and nether millstone of children and wife should help you to get a grip on your life. While well-known fact that a man's love for his children and his love for his mate are separate and distinct emotions should enable you to accept your place in your husband's affection without trying to pre-empt his heart. Even though none of these arguments saves your headache they will enable you to keep it to yourself and to make life pleasant and agreeable for your family.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield—My aunt died a year ago and mother took my first cousin to live with us. She is beginning to get a grip on her life. She don't like her very much. Mother makes me take her every time we are invited to the same party and it is ruining my good time. You don't know what grief is until you have to drag a big-fellow cousin around the dance floor all evening. Please help me out.

Answer: Your mother has certainly taken leave of her good sense. She is not only ruining your good time but she is making it impossible for you and the cousin to be good friends. This would not be so bad if she were living under separate roofs but so long as you are members of the same family it is very unfortunate.

If the cousin cannot make her way with the boys it will be far better for her to stay away from the dances than to continue to go and spoil your pleasure. You should explain to your mother that she isn't doing the girl a favor to send her out and let her be marked as a wall-flower who never gets a bid for a dance. While your mother's desire to give the girl a good time does credit to her kindness of heart, the way she is going about it is all wrong.

Sport World Pays Tribute To A Gallant Warrior

KENESAW MOUNTAIN LAND, Commissioner of Baseball, in Louisville said:

"Everybody concedes that nobody contributed more than Robby to the development of baseball. Indeed a history of his life is a history of baseball. But just now, we are not thinking of this. Our minds are on the loss of a rare character, a strange combination of tenderness and strength and loyalty, whose place in the hearts of men is not likely to be filled."

PRESIDENT JOHN D. MARTIN, of the Southern Association of Baseball Clubs, described the late Wilbert Robinson as "truly one of the great characters whose devotion to baseball developed the game into our national sport."

"I was deeply shocked by the sad news of the death of Uncle Wilbert Robinson," Mr. Martin said, in a statement of tribute. "Only yesterday I received a letter from him, addressed to 'Dear Uncle John,' mailed Monday, inviting me to attend, in company with Judge Landis and other baseball officials, the game in Atlanta Saturday."

"When I presented the attendance trophy to him in Atlanta two weeks ago last Sunday, Uncle Robby was in booming health and highest spirits, full of witty quips and interesting anecdotes of the diamond."

"The Southern league has sustained a deep loss in his passing. All of us had known him, as had everybody connected with organized baseball for any length of time, favorably and intimately, before he came to the South. "All regarded him as a great asset to the league when he joined it. "His enthusiastic interest in baseball, to which he had devoted his life, and his wide experience in the game, made his counsel at all times valuable."

"His friendly disposition and warm companionship endeared him to all who knew him. He was truly one of the great characters whose devotion to baseball developed the game into our national sport."

PRESIDENT WILL HARRIDGE, of the American league, was shocked to learn of the death of Wilbert Robinson, late manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"For many years he was one of the outstanding figures of the national game," Harridge said. "We American leaguers had a very warm spot in our hearts for Robby, for when an effort was made in 1902 to disrupt our circuit by several of the stars of the Baltimore club in jumping to the New York Giants, Mr. Robinson remained loyal to our league, and managed the Baltimore club until its franchise was transferred to New York."

"We also have admired Robby as a wonderful developer of players and for his colorful personality. I know of no one connected with the game who had more friends."

CASEY STENGEL, manager of Brooklyn Dodgers:

"He was the finest man I ever knew in baseball, and I felt his loss almost as much as if he had been a close relative. I served under Uncle Robby for seven years. He not only taught me how to play the outfield, but he taught me how to live. I regard my after-game conversations with Robby, and his evening fanning bees as the most enjoyable moments of my career. Baseball was his pleasantest with Robby around."

BILL TERRY, manager New York Giants:

"It's hard to realize Robby is gone. When I last saw him this spring in his office at the Atlanta baseball club he was healthy and happy. I always liked him and found meeting him a stimulating and cheerful experience. The game has lost a grand old figure."

JOHN A. HEYDLE, president of National league:

"All baseball will sorrow over the death of Wilbert Robinson. Aside from his achievements as a player and manager, he was one of the most beloved and genuine characters of the game. His fair fighting, his support of umpires and his philosophy and good humor relieved the grind and stress of many a championship contest."

"My regret is that he did not finish his career in the ranks of the National league, where he served so long and faithfully."

JUDGE STEPHEN MCKEEVER, president of the Brooklyn Baseball Club:

"It was with deep regret I learned of the passing of Robby. While I did not at all times agree with what he did in the running of the club, I always had the greatest admiration for him as a man. His passing is a severe blow to organized baseball."

BOARD OF DIRECTORS BROOKLYN CLUB (Stephen McKeever, H. N. Demott, James A. Mulvey Joseph A. Giljeandau): "Whereas, it was learned with deep regret of the death of our former associate, Wilbert Robinson, the Brooklyn Baseball Club at a meeting called today resolved that as a recognition of his long and faithful devotion to the best interests of baseball in Brooklyn and, whereas, his sudden passing means a real and genuine loss to all of baseball, the directors extend to his widow and members of his family their sincere sympathy and condolences."

Brunswick Sad As Uncle Robby Joins Old Mates

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP) Brunswick today mourned the death of her adopted citizen, Wilbert Robinson, known locally as the "Sage of Dover Hall."

Robinson, a resident of Glynn county for five years, was known by almost every man in the county. He resided at Dover Hall, 15 miles from the city, where he entertained friends from all sections of the country during the winter months.

Baseball owners, writers and players were always welcome at the "hut," as he called his home at the hunting preserve.

"Glynn county and Georgia have lost one of their most popular citizens," Mayor Jack Gardner said. Similar comments on Robinson's death came from other leading citizens.

Robinson came to Dover Hall 10 years ago, and when a hunting club composed of a number of baseball owners was formed there. Later he made it his home and resided there except during the baseball season.

Furman Athletes Given 'New Deal' All To Get Break

GREENVILLE, S. C., Aug. 9.—(AP) Athletes at Furman University next fall will find themselves working under a new code—designed by Dr. B. E. Geer, president, to give "equal rights" to all and special privileges to none.

Dr. Geer has laid down a six-point program to cover athletic subsidies, and has served notice on all coaches that they will be expected to see that their charges live according to its mandates. In brief, the code provides:

1.—No athletic scholarships. All scholarships and other aids to be distributed on equal terms for all, based on merit.

2.—Requirements as to character and preparation applicable to all students without favor.

3.—No financial assistance of any nature, except as based on actual needs.

4.—All such assistance to be kept on open record.

5.—Director of physical education and coaches responsible for any breach of assistance rules or college regulations by any athlete, with other school officials in same position as to other students.

Furman's athletic circles were shak-

Old Guard Mourns Uncle Robby's Passing

Childhood Feats Recalled When He Broke Into Baseball As a Clothesline Catcher.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Like the dwindling ranks of those who wore the blue or the gray, the old guard of baseball has lost another and one of its most famous musketeers—"Uncle Wilbert" Robinson, mourned today by friend or foe as one of the game's greatest characters and ablest teachers of pitching talent.

The reputation "Uncle Robby" achieved in the last 20 years of his life for genial leadership and boon companionship, on or off the diamond, overshadowed the fact he was once the foremost catcher in major league baseball, with the famous old Baltimore Orioles. By many shrewd baseball men, among them the late Hughey Jennings, Robinson was considered the best backstop of all time. He was a .350 hitter in his prime and had a wonderful throwing arm.

On the same day in 1892 with Baltimore that he made the record of seven hits for a single game, which still stands, he set a mark of batting in 11 runs, which was not surpassed until Jim Bottomley, then with St. Louis, drove in 12 in 1924.

"It was funny how I learned to work behind the bat," Robby once remarked. "My older brothers wouldn't let me when I wanted to play ball as I got up a team of younger kids, up in Hudson, Mass., where I was born. To get some practice for catching I rigged up a clothesline in our back yard fixed it to be on a level with my face and had one of the boys throw the ball to me, trying every time to hit the clothesline. You see, after I had batted at that clothesline and been banged in the head or on the fingers a few times with the ball I began to get on to the idea of handling foul tips."

THAT WAISTLINE.
"Finally, the big team, with my brothers, had gotten else to do one day and agreed to play my team of little fellows. Say, that's a laugh, isn't it? Look at my waistline now. Why that big clown, Ben Herman, said he would do his daily road work by running around me twice! But where were we—oh yes, away back in the old days, we played the big team, their catcher was hurt in the second inning and my brothers made me do the backstopping for both sides. I was so excited over it that I caught the rest of the game without once worrying about the fact I never got a turn at bat. After that they let me catch regularly for the big team."

Robinson, when he entered professional ball, was one of the first catchers to work behind the batsman. One day he tried out a new "chest protector" by having a pitcher throw the ball as hard as possible and letting the new-fangled contraption absorb the blow.

"The next thing I knew," recalled Robby, "a great big glass-blower was trying to breathe in my lungs so I said 'my life'."

Robinson caught some of the great pitchers of his day, including Kid Gleason, McMahon and Joe Corbett of the Orioles. He developed others, among them "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity, Rube Marquard and Dazzy Vance. He rated Vance as the greatest pitcher in baseball history, greater than Christy Mathewson but added: "The game is getting bigger and better and some day you'll see a super-Vance."

A BIG YELL.
Robby brought forth a yell from the old guard when he flatly declared the New York Yankees of Babe Ruth's prime as the greatest team he ever saw. "The old gang will hang in there," they hear about this, chuckled Robby, "but the old Orioles, good as they were, did not class with the Yankees for crashing power or for pitching."

Incidentally, Robinson came as close to being manager of the Yankees a dozen years ago as his bosom crony, Colonel T. L. Huston, then half-owner of the New York club, could make it. Huston wanted Robinson to replace Miller Huggins but Colonel Jacob Ruppert, co-owner, refused to agree to any change. The upset was that Ruppert bought out Huston's half-interest in 1923 after refusing to sell his own.

WOMAN IS CLEARED IN RACE DOPE CASE
MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Nan Brenton, of Norfolk, Va., owner of a racing stable, today was freed of a charge of possessing narcotic drugs when her negro trainer, Summe Dunlap, admitted that heroin discovered by royal Canadian mounted police in trunks shipped from Mrs. Brenton's stables was his property. Dunlap was fined $200 and sentenced to six months in jail.

The heroin was found by the mounted police in baggage shipped from her stable to a Montreal race track where she intended entering horses.

GOLF FACTS
Alex Morrison says: "At a driving range the other day I watched a fellow practicing. In every backswing he would sweep the club up with his eyes glued to his arms and hands. Two or three such practice swings and then he'd swing at the ball."

Obviously, this chap had been told to think about the faulty action of his legs and feet. Thinking about arms and hands will never bring about the correct foot action. However, concentrating on the side rolling of the feet and the proper execution of this action will invariably bring about the correct movements in the upper part of the body. Think about your feet."

HITCHCOCK HURT.
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Examination today of Thomas Hitchcock Jr., famous internationalist and 10-goal eastern polo ace, disclosed that he suffered a slight concussion when thrown in yesterday's test match at the Piping Rock Club and will be out of the game for two weeks.

RIDLEY LOSES IN LAST ROUND OF TITLE FLIGHT

Cheatham Wins Second Flight; Kirby Takes Third Division.

By R. S. Bryant.

NEWNAN, Ga., Aug. 9.—Howell Hollis, one of the most promising young golfers of this section and runner-up in the state tournament, won first honors for Newnan in the thirteenth annual invitation tournament of the Newnan Country Club here Thursday. A. Moody, of Newnan, won the first and second rounds having been played off Wednesday. Ninety-one golfers took off on the first day.

Hollis disposed of Frank Ridley, of LaGrange, to win the title. Lawson Little, of Cedartown, won the low qualifying medal with a 71, one under par, but he fell by the wayside before the final matches were on.

Bob Cheatham, of Griffin, won the second flight and W. W. Kirby, of Newnan, defeated another Griffinite, S. Bailey, to win the third flight.

Dr. C. A. Moody, of Newnan, won the fourth flight trophy from J. W. Powell, his fellow-townsmen.

Tom Brumby, of Cedartown, went home with the trophy in the fifth flight winning over G. Thompson, of Thomaston, while Thad Buchanan, of Newnan, won from Robert Barnes, also of Newnan, in the sixth flight.

W. T. Culpepper, of LaGrange, beat B. J. Mayer, also of LaGrange, to win the seventh flight.

Another resident of LaGrange, John Lovejoy, won from R. S. Arnall, of Newnan, in the eighth flight and F. S. Arnall, another Newnanite, beat his fellow-townsmen, George Johnson, in the ninth. Other flight winners were Wallace Clarke, tenth, R. M. Matthews, eleventh, and Ed Parrott, twelfth. All three are residents of Newnan. W. V. Atkinson III won consolation trophy from John Westmoreland.

HELEN JACOBS SEEDED FIRST
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Helen Jacobs, defending champion, today seeded at the head of the field in the 64 starting play Sunday at Forest Hills for the women's national tennis singles championship. The seeded list was made up of four Americans and four foreigners.

Seeded in order behind Miss Jacobs, who won the title when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody defeated her in the final of last year's final because of illness and a back injury, are Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, was seeded No. 2; Carolyn Babcock, of Los Angeles, who recently defeated Miss Jacobs in the Seabright singles final, No. 3, and Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., seeded No. 4.

"FOREIGN LIST."
In the "foreign list, Betty Nuthall, English girl who won the American title in 1930 and ranks No. 5 at home, is top seeded with Katherine Stammers, of England, No. 2; Elizabeth Ryan, Californian who lives abroad much of the time, No. 3, and Frieda James, of England, No. 4.

Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association seeded Miss Ryan with the invaders, despite the fact that she entered from her home in Santa Monica, Cal. The officials explained, however, that she was rated on her play abroad and therefore had to be included in that part of the list.

Miss Jacobs leads the lower, and apparently more difficult half of the draw in which are Miss Ryan, Miss Babcock, and Miss Stammers. Miss Palfrey, at the top of the upper half, is in the bracket with Miss Nuthall, Miss James and Miss Andrus.

Two other foreign entries were not seeded. They were Muriel Thomas, of Cannes, France, doubles partner of Miss Ryan, and Jean Burritt, of Toronto, who plays Miss Andrus in the first round Monday.

BORAH DENOUNCES CROP RESTRICTION

Says Chinch Bugs, Weevil,
Drouth Sufficient To Cut Production.

MERIDIAN, Idaho, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah denounced the administration crop production program tonight as joining "with the chinch bugs, the boll weevil, the locusts, the storms and the drouth in making scarce the things for which millions are nightly praying."

Such a program, he asserted, is "contrary to every phase" of President Roosevelt's political philosophy. Speaking in a farming community 15 miles from Boise in which he has in years past inaugurated several of his campaigns for re-election, the senator declared crop reduction was not necessary to save the farmer. Instead, he urged termination of monopoly protection from unjust freight rates, and provision of "a sound and sufficient currency system."

He commented that legislation failing of enactment by the last congress was likely to come before the next congress "to give the secretary of agriculture power to prescribe what a farmer may sow or plant, even what turkeys and chickens he may raise, and to manage in great detail the entire farm operation."

"It was proposed that the farmer must obtain a license to farm his own land. The secretary would then dictate the terms of that license. And failure to observe the terms would be punishable by fines as high as $1,000 a day if the unfortunate farmer were convicted."

"It was also contemplated that these regulations might dictate the terms upon which food products from the farm might be distributed. In fact, it gave complete control to the authorities in Washington to manage the simplest details of the farm. It robbed the farmer of his judgment, his discretion, his opinion as to what was best to be done."

"It is fair to say that the authors of the amendments contended they did not go so far."

Slot-Machine Owner Gets Year on Gang

The fourth day of Fulton county's special "racket" court was concluded Thursday with the conviction of A. T. Burns, better known as "Peewee" Burns, who was given a straight sentence of 12 months on the chain gang and six months in jail on a charge of possessing a slot machine. Burns was found not guilty on a count charging operation of a lottery. The state contended that the machine found in the Piedmont avenue filling station operated by Burns is of the "jackpot" type, paying off automatically in cash.

Chief C. White, said to be a native of India, was placed on trial for practicing medicine without a license and his case will be continued today. A Chinese doctor, Y. Young, and Malcolm Chesterfield, a street-corner corn fixer, were also on Thursday's calendar for non-license practicing, but their cases were postponed. Twenty-five lottery defendants pleaded guilty Thursday morning and were fined $50 each and given 18-month suspended sentences.

Bankrupt Liabilities Show Big Decrease

The annual report of the bankrupt-rupt division of the federal court issued Thursday shows liabilities of bankrupt consumers to have been but half as large as in the previous year. The report was of cases for the fiscal year ending June 30, last.

In 1934 there were 1,439 cases filed; 1,472 concluded and 971 pending. Total liabilities amounted to $6,004,869.51 and disbursements to creditors, to lawyers and others as fees, $207,422.07.

In 1933, 1,505 cases were filed; 1,391 concluded, and 1,004 pending. Liabilities were $11,223,140.09, and disbursements, $1,057,450.71. Greater disbursements in 1933 were accounted for by the fact that more "asset" cases, such as corporations owning real estate and other property, were filed.
